Nine Persons Burned to Death in New York Apartment House Fire This Morning

ONLY ONE LEFT IN TWO FAMILIES

Man, Wife, Their Four Children and Three of Another
Family Perished in Flames

14 Other Families Escaped or Were Rescued by Firemen
—Thrilling Rescues

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—Nine persons, constituting every member but one of two entire families lost their lives here early today in a fire which destroyed a five story apartment house at 307 West 146th street. Fourteen other families escaped or were rescued by firemen.

Originating, fire authorities say, in a baby carriage on the first floor of the brick structure, the fire swept upward through open stairways, cutting off escape through the halls. Nearly a hundred men, women and children, clad in night clothes, swarmed to the fire escapes, some making their way to the ground while others huddled terror-stricken on platforms in mid-air until carried to safety.

The dead were all found on the fifth and top floor after the flames had been controlled. They were:

Raphael Gebbin, his wife Anna and their four children, who ranged in years from seven down to one and one-half; Mrs. Ada Frank; Mrs. Bertha Reynolds, her sister, and Ruth Reynolds, a girl of 16.

Charles Frank, overcome by smoke, fainted over a window sill and was dragged to safety and revived by a man who reached out from an adjoining building and drew him across the narrow open space. Mrs. Dora Schofield, living on the second floor, escaped with minor injuries.

Robert Walker, a neighborhood resident, climbed a fire escape before the arrival of firemen and carried to safety an infant which had been abandoned in its crib by a family living on the second floor.

PRESIDENT ABLE TO WALK WITHOUT AID OF CANE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—President Wilson is now able to walk about the White House without the aid of a cane. It was stated today at the White House. He uses his wheel chair only for the purpose of an occasional relaxation, it was said.

White House officials declared that the president's health had so far improved as to make it possible for him to address congress in person when it convenes next month, but that Mr. Wilson had as yet made no definite plans to do so.

Nearly two-thirds of all high school teachers in the United States are women.

CITY PRIMARIES HERE TUESDAY

Long List of Aspirants for Positions in 1921 Government

Quiet Campaign Precedes
Primaries — Referenda at December Election

A fairly heavy vote is expected to be cast at the city primaries to be held here next Tuesday, from 12 noon to 8 p. m., both because of the advent of women into general suffrage and because of the large number of candidates in the field.

With a total registration of more than 30,000 men and women, and 26 candidates aspiring to places in the municipal council of the school committee, there is abundant reason to anticipate a larger vote than has been recorded in past years. While the campaign up to the present writing has been quiet, the widespread interest that has been noted in previous contests, this fact is offset by the wide acquaintance of practically every one of the 26 candidates and the undoubted interest which women will take in their first opportunity to vote for municipal officers in general.

The candidates for aldermen, 14 in number, are the following: George H. Brown, David Dickson, Michael H. Harlow, Fred G. Leary, George R. Marchand, John J. McPadden.

FOR REVISION OF THE LEAGUE COVENANT

GENEVA, Nov. 20.—(By Associated Press)—The first formal step looking toward the revision of the covenant of the League of Nations was taken by the Assembly of the League at today's session. The Dutch minister of foreign affairs, H. A. Van Karambe, introduced a resolution for reconsideration of Article XVIII, relating to the resignation of treaties.

Twice again the admission of former enemy states into the league was advocated yesterday. Labor was quoted by Mr. Barnes as in a large majority demanding it. There now have been represented in the demands for the admission of the former enemy states South Africa, Great Britain, Switzerland, Argentina and Scandinavia. It still appears, however, that not one of the delegations is ready to take the initiative in proposing the election of Germany to membership.

Lord Robert Cecil of the British delegation has said that he will not do so, and Honorable Pueyrredon, head of the Argentine delegation who has spoken strongly in favor of Germany coming in, declared that he will not nominate her. Neither will the Dutch and Swedish delegations, which are supposed to be Germany's strongest supporters, propose her admission to the league, although sentiment favorable to her membership crops out in every debate.

It is now generally considered that the question is entirely with a committee of delegates who hesitate to propose Germany's admission from the floor of the assembly are quite free in bringing up the discussion in committee.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—All breweries manufacturing beer containing more than one-half of one per cent. of alcohol, will be seized by the federal government, it was indicated today at the bureau of internal revenue, where it was said that an analysis of beer brewed in a number of places was now being made.

Law Leaders Make Protest

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Prohibition leaders today protested to government enforcement officers against the reissuing of permits to wholesale liquor dealers to handle intoxicating liquors. The claim was made by Wayne B. Wheeler, counsel for the Anti-Saloon League, who headed the delegation, that issuance of the permits to liquor dealers not manufacturers or wholesale druggists, was not authorized by the Volstead act.

The permits, hundreds of which are outstanding, expire automatically December 1, and Wheeler declared that abuse of the privileges conveyed by the permits was common and that the consumption of liquor as a beverage was increased thereby.

Eight organizations were parties to the protest.

DIVORCES SON OF BRITISH PEER

Lowell Girl Freed From
Dashing British Captain
Who Abused Her

Miss Huntton Married Capt.
Mitford in Belgium During the War

BOSTON, Nov. 20.—A divorce which was granted yesterday afternoon by Judge Bell to Mrs. Mary Mitford from Capt. Roland Mitford, now in the British army in Egypt, for cruel and abusive treatment and intoxication, ends a romance which began in France during the war.

Mrs. Mitford, who was Miss Huntton of Lowell, after graduating from the Conservatory of Music, went to Europe to complete her musical education. Her companion on the ocean voyage was Mrs. Alice Cram, a sister of ex-Lieut. Gov. Edward P. Barry. She was the democratic candidate for auditor at the state election.

When France was reached the war was already on. Not long after her arrival she met Capt. Mitford, son of an English writer. After a brief courtship they were married at Ostend.

Two days after the marriage Mrs. Mitford says she realized that her husband was a heavy drinker, brandy and soda being his regular beverage. She had only been his wife for 48 hours when her husband, while drunk, said she stood her up in a corner of their room and told her he would show now Englishmen treated their American wives when it became necessary to inebriate them with proper respect and convince American women that Englishmen were entitled to make subjects of their wives.

A reconciliation followed this incident and the Mitfords, accompanied by Mrs. Cram, went to England. A month later, while living at the Sussex mansions, Mrs. Mitford told Judge Bell, her husband drank a quart of brandy every morning before breakfast, and standing her by a window declared that both were going to plunge out together.

Mrs. Mitford succeeded in averting the threatened tragedy. The family physician was called, and in reply to an inquiry by Mrs. Mitford, said that there was no trace of insanity in the Mitford family, but plenty of alcoholism.

Mrs. Mitford then separated from her husband and lived with his father until the latter's death. She nursed the senior Mitford during his last illness, and said that her husband did not attend his father's funeral.

Mrs. Mitford decided to engage in war work and went to the battle line in France. She was wounded by a shell, and was awarded the Victoria cross. Through efforts of Senator Lodge Mrs. Mitford obtained passports and returned to America.

Ex-Lieut. Gov. Barry informed the court that Capt. Mitford had written a letter saying that he did not desire to contest his wife's libel.

CORNELL WINS RUN

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 20.—Cornell won the intercollegiate cross country run here today, with 55 points. Princeton was second with 56 points and Massachusetts Tech. was third, with 90 points. The individual winner was the individual winner, this time for the six mile course was 33 minutes, one second.

Yale won the freshman cross country run.

The Indian head on old pennies was from a drawing of a white girl, Sarah Longacre, wearing a war bonnet.

IS LOWELL WIDE OPEN?

Prevalence of Drunkenness
Indicates Great Laxness of Law Enforcement

Survey of Present Conditions
—Views of Supt. Welch
and Others

All sorts of stories are afloat regarding the effects of prohibition in Lowell and the enforcement, or lack of enforcement, of the law which forbids the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors.

It is possible to hear the opinion frequently expressed that the town is "wide open" that more hard stuff is being sold than in the old days when the city had its 100 old saloons with doors swinging wide for all-comers. Stories are going the rounds that all who have the price can buy their favorite tipple of hard stuff, or of beverages less pure, and that liquor can be openly purchased in this place of that.

If some stories that are told were worthy of credence, half the homes of the city have been turned into domestic breweries or distilleries for the making of the mild "home brew" or moonshine. According to some tales, it might be supposed that every other man, if he did not have his own vineyard and wine vats, at least has access to a plentiful supply of raisins and has on hand a cool bottle or two of vinous beverage that is calculated to produce a bewitching effect even if the bottles have accumulated none of the cobwebs that denote age.

BURKE CASE GOES TO JURY

Judge Delivered Charge This Morning and Jury Retired
at 10.25 O'Clock

Court Called Attention to Various Vital Points to Be Considered

SKOWHEGAN, Me., Nov. 20.—The jury in the second trial of John A. Burke, for the murder of Nelson W. Bartley at Jackman on October 15, 1919, retired at 10.25 a. m. today.

Associate Justice Scott Wilson in his charge to the jury, called attention to the various vital points which must be considered. He referred to the state's claim that the bullet wound in Burke's leg could not have been made by Bartley, but that it was self-inflicted.

He also spoke of the claims of the defense that Burke had insufficient time to have committed the crime, and that it was unreasonable to believe that he shot himself.

Judge Wilson then took up the claims of both sides as to rigor mortis, the state claiming the body was placed in the "blow down" immediately after the killing and the defense contending that rigor mortis had been completed when the body was hidden.

He also called attention to the evidence that a pool of blood was found outside the "blow down."

Harvard Top-Heavy Favorite Over Yale in Historic Gridiron Battle at New Haven

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 20.—(By Associated Press)—Harvard and Yale came to grips at football today and the partisan crowd which annually attends this autumnal sports classic was out in force.

As a spectacle, it was the usual rich show. In numbers it exceeded the attendance at any previous football game in this country. Only at automobile speedway races has a greater crowd turned out for a sports event within an enclosure.

50,000 People Attend

The great saucer of the Yale bowl, spaciouly setting for the 100-yard gridiron on which the climactic game of the two "varsity" schedules was to be decided, was ringed round with its greatest and gayest display. Fully 50,000 persons were there—74,473 being paid admissions. Madly came swathed in skins of seal or mink, squirrel or raccoon, notwithstanding that the day was one of Indian summer mildness. The men, nearly all partisans of Yale or Harvard, included leaders of the country's polities, society or business, many of the latter having abandoned for the time being the concerns of panicky markets, to get inspiration from the spectacle of man-to-man competition, and a test of team play, with collegiate honors at stake.

Harvard Favorites in Betting

The crimson team which had rested over night at Derby, came to the field with hope. For Harvard the season had been a success, and the results of its previous games augured well for its showing against the ancient rival, Yale. This was reflected by the odds of crimson enthusiasts of wagers at odds of 2 to 1, and 3 to 1, with some Yale takers.

The blue had only hopes to build on its ante-climax last week at Princeton and in the game with Boston colleges several weeks ago. But with the hope was a spirit represented in the bulldog mascot and the undergraduates' slogan, posted in dormitories and in dining halls: "Are we

with the answer written boldly, "No."

The lineups were somewhat in doubt before the game, both Coaches Jones of Yale and Fisher of Harvard withholding final word on several positions until their players took the field. Each had its full strength available, and it was believed that virtually two eleven would be used by each before the afternoon was done.

The probable lineup at the outset was:

MRS. WILSON'S BROTHER NAMED

Brother-in-Law of President
Accused in Connection
With Alleged Bribe

Sensational Testimony Before
Committee Investigating
Shipping Board

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—R. W. Bolling, brother-in-law of President Wilson and treasurer of the shipping board, was named in connection with a $10,000 bribe alleged to have been paid by a Staten Island shipbuilding company to procure unusual favors from the board, in testimony before the congressional committee investigating shipping board affairs here today.

Tucker E. Sands, former vice president of the Commercial National bank, Washington, testified that it was his "understanding" that $1800 he loaned Bolling against this note, and against which Bolling has already paid back $300 was Bolling's share of the "$10,000 bribe" of the Wallace Downey Shipbuilding Corporation for unusual shipping board favors.

Sands said that the $10,000 he "understood" was to be split four ways between himself, Bolling, Lester Sisler, former shipping board secretary, and a man named Kraner.

SLIGHT INCREASE IN DEATH RATE

There was a slight increase in the local death rate this week as compared with a week ago, but the figures were lower than those of two weeks ago. There was a recrudescence of the measles epidemic, 31 cases being reported as against 57 last week. Two weeks ago there were also 31 cases.

There were 29 deaths during the week compared with 26 a week ago and 34 the week before. The rates were 13.37, 11.59 and 15.65, respectively. Nine deaths were of children less than five years old and six of these were under one. Infectious diseases caused two deaths, pneumonia four, measles one and tuberculosis one.

The infectious diseases reported were: Diphtheria, 5; scarlet fever, 10; measles, 31; tuberculosis, 7. A year ago this week there were 22 deaths, six under five and five under one. One case of measles was reported.

MASS MEETING FOR MEN TOMORROW

The Sunday afternoon mass meeting for men, to be held at the Lowell Opera House at 3:30, will be one more especially of a patriotic nature. John Willis Weeks of New York city, a lecturer, educator and writer, will give his address, "Whence Came This Legion?" illustrated by over 100 slides, all of which are beautifully colored, illustrating the "whence" of the American Legion.

This address has been dedicated especially to the American Legion, and it is hoped that many members of the local post may be present to hear it. If ample notice is given, pains will be taken to reserve space for the members of the legion. Mr. Weeks has lectured at many of the camps during the war, as well as in many of the largest cities, to several of which he has returned many times.

MISS LOGAN HONORED

A linen shower was given Thursday evening in honor of Miss Irene Logan at her home, West Fourth street, when about 75 of her friends called and presented her many beautiful and useful gifts. Although taken by complete surprise she responded gracefully and thanked them for their many gifts. A varied entertainment was given in the form of a minstrel show, Margaret Tarpey being the interlocutor, while Katherine McPherson, Mary Farrell, Adele Long and Sadie Flannery were the ends. The soloists of the evening were: Mrs. John Flannery, Mrs. John Byrne, Mrs. Tardiff and Mrs. Annie Devine. Another feature of the evening was a mock marriage, the participants being Mae Tarpey, Mary Bray, Katherine Tooley and Katherine Bourke. The accompanists of the evening were Maud Gray and Nora Campbell. The success of the affair was due to Mae Ashe, Mabel Topping, Alice Mahoney and Lillian Dooley.

CHRISTMAS AT ORPHANAGE

The annual Christmas tree exercises at the French-American orphanage in Pawtucket street will be held as usual this year and again the affair will be given under the auspices of Mrs. George E. Calise. The Christmas tree exercises at the orphanage were opened, Mrs. Calise looked after the welfare of the little ones by providing them with delicacies and toys as well as wearing apparel. The exercises are possible through private donations collected by Mrs. Calise and this year will be no exception to the rule. Another feature at the orphanage at Christmas is the midnight mass, which is celebrated in the chapel of the institution. This service will be held as usual this year and the sisters in charge of the home are now preparing a special musical program for the event. This mass is for the children of the orphanage and a few invited guests.

SATURDAY EVENING SOCIAL
The regular Saturday evening social will be held at the Y.M.C.A. There will be movies and singing during the evening and refreshments will be served by the ladies. There will also be movies and a short explanation, on the working and advantages of the Knowlton Hydraulic Air Motor. This is something worth knowing about.

THANKSGIVING TURKEY HIGH THIS YEAR

Thanksgiving turkeys are to be expensive and scarce in Lowell this year and most of the birds of an inferior quality.

Such is the dictum of the manager of one of the large local wholesale houses who was in Boston all day yesterday attempting to get the annual shipment of turkeys into Lowell started, but who reported this morning that his visit was more or less discouraging.

In the first place, this has been a poor year for raising turkeys owing to the unreasonable weather which prevailed up to two weeks ago. It is next to impossible to fatten the birds in warm weather, he says, because they keep running around under such conditions and gain little flesh. In cold weather they eat more heartily and fatten much more quickly.

The net result is a very bullish turkey market. The best wholesale prices he could obtain yesterday by offering to buy the birds by the carload was from 52 to 60 cents per pound for Kentucky and other western turkeys and from 60 to 75 cents a pound for New York birds.

Such rates, he says, will mean retail prices ranging from 65 to 85 cents per pound. The birds are mostly of an inferior quality as compared with previous years, although, of course, a few good ones may be found by the keenly discerning householder.

The market is very high, the highest in years, in fact, the Lowell manager says, and he is in an excellent position to know. Cooler weather during the past two weeks has helped to improve matters a bit, but there seems little indication of any great drop between now and next Thursday, Thanksgiving.

Owing to the amount of unemployment now existent in Lowell and similar cities, it is believed that there will not be such a great demand for turkeys as in previous years. Chickens and fowl will be substituted in a number of homes because of their superior tasting qualities this year. Milk-fed chickens are expected to retail at about 60 cents per pound and corn fed at 50. There is a fairly abundant supply of this kind of poultry. Other families will probably resort to the staple meats, such as pork, veal and beef. Vegetables, cranberries and other addenda of the Thanksgiving dinner are plentiful and fairly reasonable. But the customary piece de resistance—the turkey—will command a very high figure.

"Don't Believe That Old Hunch About 'Uric Acid' Being the Cause of Rheumatism—It's Not Set"

Emphatically asserting that thousands of unfortunate sufferers have been led into taking wrong treatments under the old and false belief that "uric acid" causes rheumatism, Pastor H. W. Reed says:

"As do some of our highest medical authorities, I now know that 'Uric Acid' never did and never will cause rheumatism. But I took many years to find out this truth. I learned how to get rid of my rheumatism and recover my health and strength, through reading 'The Inner Mysteries of Rheumatism,' a work written by an authority who has scientifically studied the cause and treatment of rheumatism for over twenty years. It was indeed a veritable revelation!

"I had suffered many years from rheumatism and associated disorders, and Mrs. Reed was tortured with the demon neuritis almost beyond endurance. We had read and talked so much about 'Uric Acid' that our minds seemed poisoned. But the Inner Mysteries of Rheumatism made it all clear to us and now we are both free from the suffering and misery we endured so many years. I believe it was the hardest man in the world to convert! For me to discard the old 'Uric Acid' theory, and what I now know to be absolutely false, for the new, scientific understanding of the cause and cure of rheumatism, was like asking me to change my religious beliefs! But I did change, and it was a fortunate day for me and mine when I did so."

NOTE: "The Inner Mysteries of Rheumatism" referred to above by Pastor Reed lays bare facts about rheumatism and its associated disorders overlooked by doctors and scientists for centuries past. It is a work that should be in the hands of every man or woman who has the slightest symptoms of rheumatism, neuritis, lumbago or gout. Anyone who sends name and address to H. P. Greenwater, 250 E. Street, Lowell, Mass., will receive it by mail, postage paid and absolutely free. Send now, lest you forget the address! If not a sufferer, put this explanation and hand it to some afflicted friend.

FOR STARVING CHILDREN

Athletic Association Helps to Swell the European Children's Fund

The co-operation of the Athletic Association of Harvard, Yale and Princeton has netted $3,700 toward the American Relief Administration's European Children's Fund, according to John W. Hallowell of Boston, Massachusetts chairman of the Hoover organization. Contributions from these in attendance at the big game in New Haven this afternoon will swell the fund, it is believed to $5,000. The money given to feed the starving children of Central Europe by the crowds in attendance at the three college games will apply toward a fund of $25,000,000. Herbert Hoover is endeavoring to raise in the United States. It is estimated that this sum will be necessary to keep alive 3,500,000 children in Poland, Austria, Hungary, Germany and Czechoslovakia who are now facing starvation.

Harvard, Yale and Princeton Athletic associations enclosed printed notices with all tickets sold to the game. These notices stated that as no war tax was charged, the recipients might be glad to donate that sum toward the A. R. A. European Children's Fund.

This morning, Fred A. Moore, graduate manager of the Harvard Athletic Association sent Mr. Hoover a check for $2,300, received from ticket holders since the Harvard-Princeton game. The Princeton Association likewise sent a check for $1,500. Yale's contribution, the result of today's appeal enclosed with the tickets, will, it is believed, bring the amount to $5,000. Mr. Hallowell, who is state chairman of the A. R. A. European Children's Fund, is a former Harvard football player. Herbert L. Gutterson, who is in charge of the national Hoover campaign with offices at 42 Broadway, New York, is another Harvard football player. Both men have long been identified with the Hoover organization.

In view of famine conditions in Central Europe, the American Relief Association has announced that a generation of children will die of starvation during the coming winter months unless food is rushed to Europe from the United States.

Sleep Like a Top

There is nothing so essential to good health as good sound, refreshing sleep. This you can not get if your stomach, liver or kidneys are out of order. It's an easy matter to keep these important organs in good condition if, when they are not working properly, you will take for a few days from 10 to 20 drops of SEVEN BARKS in a little water after each meal. It is a safe and remarkable remedy, scientifically blended from the extracts of roots and herbs, and has stood the test for nearly half a century.

If you want to "sleep like a top," as the old saying goes, you must take good care of your health.

SEVEN BARKS comes direct from Nature, and is a most valuable remedy in the home treatment of chronic disorders, such as indigestion, constipation, rheumatism, liver, kidney and stomach troubles. As a tonic and general corrective, SEVEN BARKS is without an equal, and should be in every home. It is Nature's way of supplying tone and strength and overcoming disease.

Sleepless nights will cause you to get up in the morning, tired and unrefreshed, with a dull, heavy head, depression, etc.—these are symptoms of deranged stomach, an inactive liver and kidneys. SEVEN BARKS will help remove these troubles. It acts gently and safely, but very efficiently. At druggists. Price 60 cents—Adv.

SETTLEMENT IN THE SEARLES WILL CASE

BOSTON, Nov. 20.—Albert Victor Searles, a Boston artist, has won a victory in his fight to secure a "just and fair" portion of the $28,000,000 estate of his uncle, the late Edward Francis Searles, who when he died last August, left his nephew but $250,000, the residue—after other bequests were made—going to Arthur T. Walker of New York, business manager of the Searles estate.

Preliminary skirmishes in the Essex county probate court in the nephew's fight to break the will began Oct. 1. Their result was the framing of jury issues for a trial, and the contestants were awaiting the naming of a trial date when settlement by "private agreement" was reached yesterday.

Albert Victor Searles will become the possessor of the largest share of the $10,000,000 or $11,000,000 which will remain of the estate, after the government inheritance taxes have been paid and $5,000,000 out of the balance has been turned over to legatees named in the millionaire's will.

Depreciation in real estate values and large losses in the value of securities owned by the estate, and payment of $12,000,000 or $13,000,000 in inheritance taxes will leave about one-third of the estimated cash value of the estate when the administrators and trustees, Arthur T. Walker and Lewis A. Deland, are finally prepared to turn over to the artist nephew the sum agreed upon yesterday.

FRATERNAL NEWS

The annual inspection of James A. Griffith Women's Relief corps took place last evening. "NEWSPAPER MINSTRELS"

An entertainment, entitled the "Newspaper Minstrels," was staged in the community club rooms in the Ruxley building last night for members of the club. The minstrels were dressed up to represent the various cartoon characters of the daily papers, and the evening was one uproar after another when the girls presented themselves "dressed up" in curious costumes, as Mrs. Katinka, the Katzenjammer kids, Maggie, or Mrs. Mull. There were nearly 150 members present. Miss Alice Coyne acted as intercomedian while the Minstrel sisters acted as end men. Miss Mary Hewson led the chorus of 20 girls and Miss Lillian Alford was the pianist. Miss Helen Latour and her committee, including Miss Ethel Dixon and Miss Anna Foley, directed the entertainment.

"FRUIT-A-LIVES" Keeps His Stomach, and Liver in order

154 Elm St., Lakeport, N. H.

"I realize that I have reached the age (65) when one often requires fixing up. My digestion was not right and trouble with my Liver and Bowels caused considerable distress. I could not get rid of the Constipation; and the insufficient action of my bowels resulted in my blood absorbing the poisons.

Last fall, I began taking 'Fruit-a-lives' or Fruit Liver Tablets, and after using them for a short time I could see they were just what my system required. My liver became active and improvement in every way was apparent.

I doubt whether anyone could feel better than I do; and I am willing to give credit where credit is due, to 'Fruit-a-lives'." F. R. ADAMS.

NEWS OF THE DAY IN POLICE COURT

For going away after knowingly injuring a dog, John W. Armstrong, a motorcyclist, was bound over until November 22. Officer O'Keefe alleges that defendant ran over a dog on Gosham street and went ahead 75 yards before turning back to make himself known. Police allege that Armstrong attempted to escape and turned back only when called by the officer. Defendant alleges that dog attacked his cycle twice and that he turned back as soon as he could right his machine.

Edgar C. Maher, charged with endangering lives and safety of the public, was put over until November 27. Maher, while driving a motorcycle on the boulevard in Kenwood recently, it is alleged, struck a boy, throwing him about 30 feet and severely injuring him.

CHURCH FAIR AND SALE

The fair and sale for the benefit of St. Anne's church of North Billerica, which opened in this parish house Thursday evening, was brought to a close last evening. The affair was a success in every way and reflects great credit upon the committee in charge. The entertainment last evening was given by the "Tower" class of the Gosham Street P. M. church of this city, and consisted of a playlet entitled "The Country School," the following participating: Miss Mary M. Mountford, Miss Nellie Sladen, William Haynes, Joseph Higginbottom, Norman Murray, Carl Johnson, Leslie Dukeshire, Harold Blakely, David Rooney, George Brown, Charles Crumblie, Bertram Keld, Miss Orpha Stark, Frederick Murray, Mrs. Elizabeth Crumblie, Miss Edith Northam.

Local Greeks Celebrate Victory of Demetrius Gounaris—Big Parade

Members of the local Greek community celebrated the triumph of Demetrius Gounaris over Premier Venizelos with a parade and church service last evening. Several hundred royalists participated in the street parade and later hundreds of men and women filled the church in Jefferson street, where prayers were offered for the restoration to the throne of Greece of former King Constantine.

The demonstration was peaceful in every way, and was witnessed by thousands of people who lined the streets through which the paraders marched. The supporters of former King Constantine assembled in Lewis street shortly after 7 o'clock, and headed by Peter Rigopoulos and George Plasteros, who acted as marshal and assistant marshal, a squad of police and the United States Cavalry band marched down Lewis street to Market, to Dutton, to Thordalke, to Middlesex, to Central, to Morrill, to Cabot, to Market, to Lewis and to the church in Jefferson street. At the head of the procession were carried Greek and American flags as well as pictures of President Wilson, King Constantine and Mr. Gounaris. There were also banners bearing the inscription "Gounaris for America, the Mother of Suffering People," as well as placards bearing compliments to Constantine and Gounaris. Flag-bedecked automobiles brought up the rear end of the parade.

At the close of the parade, concert numbers were given in front of the church, while hundreds gathered in the temple and later a special service was held in the church with Rev. Nicholas Menides officiating. Prayers were offered for the return of King Constantine to the throne of Greece and special hymns were sung by George Papadopoulos, interesting remarks were made by Peter Rigopoulos, who exhorted the people to co-operate with the motherland in every respect, and commented upon the "freedom" of the Greek people from the Venizelist government.

Selectmen Pay Auto Damages—Other News Items

Because a large stone jolted out of a country road near Willow Dale last Fourth of July and Roscoe Ellis, contractor of Lowell, driving his machine over the road could not avoid it, the selectmen of Lowell paid out $75 last night to the latter for damages to his automobile. Ellis entered a bill for $135, including cost for towing his car to the city, $2.50 a hour for the nine hours that he stayed with his car on the road and the cost of hiring an automobile to take him home, and when he had intended to take in his beach in his own machine. The discussion of the bill provided some very hot argument before the selectmen, the latter alleging that automobilists could have easily avoided the stone and that they take their chances on country roads.

Visited the Schools. On an invitation from Superintendent Charles Randall, the school committee of Lowell visited all the schools in the town Thursday morning and in the afternoon visited the schools of other towns. Those who took the tour along with the superintendent were Albert Fox chairman; Eugene C. Fox, Nelson Huntley and Edward Den-

Navy Yard Mills. The Navy Yard mills are working steadily five days each week with several of the departments working on Saturday morning. The finishing department of the plant worked this morning. The company is engaged in putting out large orders in overcoats and women's dress goods.

Other News Items. In St. Mary's church, Collinsville, next Thursday evening there will be a solemn high mass for the late Lord Mayor MacSwiney. There will be a special musical program with Miss Leona Spellman, organist, in charge. The Carnations staged a dance in Grange hall last night and provided entertainment for several hundred young couples during the evening. Those who had charge of the dance were the Misses Alice and Bossi Gallagher, Hazel Smith and Florence McFarlane, William Cossette, Arthur Worth, Walter McCallum, Leo Frawley. Next Wednesday evening the sisters will present a Thanksgiving dinner in Grange hall. The hall will be specially decorated and refreshments provided.

Building Fund Drive Successful Here—Over $8000 Already Subscribed

The Holy Cross greater building fund drive in this city is sure to meet with success, according to the reports being sent in to the chairman of the local committee. Lowell's quota is set at $10,000 and the grand total of contributions reported to date is $8,301, with a few days remaining to clear up the difference of $1,699. The next meeting of the Lowell committee will be held Monday evening, November 22, at 8.30, in the office of Dennis J. Murphy in the Central block, at which time and place all members of the committee having prospect cards will make a report on them. A full attendance of the committee is requested in order that arrangements can be made to make a clean sweep of the unreported prospects. It is the intention of the committee to form a flying squadron during the few remaining days of the drive in order to obtain the quota assigned Lowell.

Headquarters in Worcester report that the fund will total over $700,000 by tonight and that at this rate, the drive in New England, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, and the Middle West districts are bound to put the fund well over the million dollar mark by a comfortable margin.

The City Upon the Hill is the phrase that Holy Cross men have used in times past about their alma mater. Now they are adopting the term which Senator David I. Walsh used after his visit to the Greater City Upon the Hill.

In a message addressed to the alumni of the college and especially to members of the fund committee, Rev. James J. Carlin, S.J., of Holy Cross, says:

"While Holy Cross will continue to play its important part in the program of arts and sciences in the program which will be suggested in the efforts which the present alumni movement is aiming at. Conscious that their alma mater will have the most successful education in the past, her leaders also look to her fuller service when her greater city is built. With the added facilities which the new buildings will afford her, the college will be able to double its quota of men for the welfare of the church and state. What Holy Cross needs immediately is an address. The new buildings now being raised, the fund now being raised, the new science department today is recognized as one of the strongest in the country. An address, a large hall, a students' dormitory, a gymnasium, a chapel large enough to accommodate more than 1200 students."

The last report of the local chairman is as follows:

TO ENFORCE SUNDAY SPORTS LAW HERE

The local park department in co-operation with the police department will begin an offensive against violators of the Sunday sports law in Lowell tomorrow afternoon, it was announced by the office of the park department today.

Following the appearance of notices of games scheduled for tomorrow in the newspapers, Supt. John W. Kernan of the park department stated that none of the games scheduled had been sanctioned by the park commission. The state law permitting sports on Sunday is very definitely, Mr. Kernan stated, a permit must be issued by the park commission or other municipal body designated for the purpose before such games can be played. Up to noon today no permits had been granted or requested at the park department office.

The park commission has also regulations of its own making it necessary to secure permits to play games on public parks and commons. The local police have given the park department assurance of their full co-operation in enforcing the measures governing Sunday sports here.

RED CROSS DRIVE FOR MEMBERSHIP

Only five more days remain of the Red Cross drive for membership, and it is beginning to be realized that there must be a hustling 11th-hour campaign to get the number of names that have been obtained last year.

Last year's membership in Lowell was approximately 16,500. During the 10 days that have elapsed, closing tonight, since the drive began, it is believed that not more than 5000 new persons have been secured. It is therefore a matter of some importance to last year's quota, it will be necessary, between now and Thanksgiving day's end, to obtain members at the rate of more than 2000 a day every day, including tomorrow, Sunday.

The women of this year have not been organized into regular teams as they have in the past. They are, however, doing very enthusiastic and effective work. They are working in conjunction with the teams of men, and principally they are devoting their attention to the least promising fields wherein the men are not so successful. This morning a Red Cross booth was opened in the Chaffoux store, opposite one of the main entrances. It was in charge during the morning hours of Mrs. Grace Morton, Miss Hertha Abbott and Miss Edna Smith. The afternoon and evening members of the Red Cross community club are to be at the table. It is reported that the teachers of the High, Pawtucket, Continuation and Riverside schools are 100 per cent enrolled.

Is Lowell Wide Open?

charge are often reputable citizens who weigh their words before criticizing public authorities, that the police are not doing their duty in attempting to enforce the prohibitory law; that they wink at lawbreaking because it is not reflected on the part of their duties. It has been charged openly that some of the officials have reasons of their own for being lenient with offenders.

It is also frequently asserted that drunkenness has reached proportions where it is something more than a nuisance, and that the authorities are not taking any action to cope with the situation.

It is also being asserted that immorality has shown an alarming increase since the prohibitory law became effective. That is, in many more cases of abusive treatment of wives and children, and that charges of non-support have multiplied in the police court.

To clear away some of the hysteria and cloud of doubts and misapprehensions regarding public drunkenness, the Lowell Sun has made a careful investigation of conditions as they exist. The results of the survey are set forth as fairly and without prejudice as human fallibility permits.

Plain Enough to Anyone

That there is considerable drunkenness in Lowell is plain enough to anyone who travels around the streets. Men, who have temporarily lost control of their senses as a result of worshipping too long as the shrine of booze, are by no means a rare sight.

The fact that the land is supposed to be a temperance land, containing more than one-half of one per cent. of alcohol makes such cases more noticeable.

The police court records, too, show that there is drunkenness in abundance. During the last six months, ending Nov. 1, 945 individuals stepped by the fumes of booze were hauled to the station. During the first 19 days of the present month, there were 94 such cases. "Horrible; the law is not being enforced; it is a failure," says someone. But suppose a squint is taken in another direction. During the last six months with the open saloon there were 1812 arrests for drunkenness in the city of Lowell. That is, there has been a decrease of nearly 50 per cent. in such cases. To put it another way, the prohibitory law has saved over 800 men from the disgrace of being locked up for drunkenness in the last six months, assuming that the number of arrests would have remained at the figures for the last six months of wetness if the saloons had kept open.

Not so reassuring is the evidence that booze selling and booze drinking under prohibition is decreasing. For the first three months of the present year the number of arrests for drunkenness was 155. For the three months ending Nov. 1, the number was 393.

The question, where does the liquor that produces so many cases of drunkenness come from, and who, if anybody, is selling it, open up a wide field for investigation, and some speculation. The reasoning process which reaches the conclusion that since booze somewhere and that it is being sold, is not much more complicated than that which puts two and two together to make four.

To begin with, it can be said without much fear of the statement being questioned, that there is no booze selling in Lowell that is likely to be of the ordinary observer. Most of the former teetotal keepers have folded their tents long ago. They have departed into other lines of business. Some of those who will conduct saloons for the sale of near beer are under suspicion of dispensing something stronger. Charges of violating the law have been made against some of them since Judge Enright being punished and the big fellows were unmolested.

The Legal Possession

It should be remembered that there is still in the legal possession of residents of Lowell quantities of liquor that were purchased in pre-prohibitory days. These supplies are the owners have the right to drink at their own homes. They also, apparently, under the law, have a right to take the stuff around in their pockets and to take a nip whenever and wherever the desire should prompt, although the prying suspicion of a policeman might be aroused if the only thing the possessor of this liquor are not permitted for a law to do is to dispose of it by a price.

Nevertheless, it is undoubtedly a fact that part of this private supply is being sold as the result of cash transactions. It is doubtful if much of this liquor is being sold to the street who drink it in the charge of drunkenness. It is in the charge of the better class citizens, it is consumed, and the men and women who get what enjoyment they can out of it are usually held in sufficient esteem by the cops to make it quite certain that they will be assisted to their homes and not to the police station, if an emergency shall require.

The apparent "joke" in the Volstead law, that was uncovered by the supreme court, promises to be a large store of legally-held liquor. Under the recent decision of the court, legal-liquor may be transported in bulk to any place where it is consumed, and police authorities assert, means that liquor may be carried about almost anywhere without violation of the law, as it would be difficult, if not impossible, to prove in individual cases whether the booze had come and whether it was going.

Big Stocks on Hand. There are some hundreds of thousands of gallons of legally manufactured booze held in the bonded warehouses of the country. This liquor is largely represented by whiskey warehouse certificates. Each certificate calls for a certain quantity of booze. They can be bought and sold on the market. The preliminaries in obtaining a supply of the stuff that made old John Barleycorn famous are to buy a certificate and present it for redemption, and then take the stuff away, but Uncle Sam says, "don't sell it, if you want to escape the penalties of the law."

That there are considerable quantities of "home-brew" being consumed in Lowell seems quite certain. There are stores in which the materials for concocting the beverages are displayed openly for sale in the windows. On the packages containing some of the ingredients, purchasers are given information that the stuff is to be made into drinks that will not contain more than one-half of one per cent. of alcohol, but the only way to do it is to boil the beverage for several hours to remove the alcohol, after the rest of the process has been completed, and the vendors of the stuff are sure that they expect customers always to carefully conform to the instructions.

Consumed at Home

It is not believed that much of the drunkenness that gets into the courts is due to the drinking of "home brew." The stuff is hardly suitable for consumption very far away from the place where it is made, and such of it as is manufactured is doubtless drunk in the families and by the immediate relatives and friends of the makers. That it is consumed in the homes, can scarcely be doubted. People are familiar with the situation declare that the prevalence of the use of "home brew" is deplorable in that it brings many of the elements of the house of sorrow into intimate contact with growing children.

A few days ago, the prohibition enforcement commissioner announced that the materials for making "home brew"—malt, hops and glucose—should in the future be sold only to bakers and confectioners. The ruling has apparently had little effect as yet in Lowell.

Superintendent of Police Redmond Welch stated to The Sun that no attempt was being made to stop the sale of these articles in Lowell.

Considerable quantities of raisin and other kinds of wine are doubtless being made in Lowell. This is very largely consumed in the homes, and is not believed to result in very much public drunkenness.

Hard Stuff, the Cause

What is the cause of the drunkenness that has led to nearly 1000 arrests in Lowell in the last six months? The answer is hard stuff, brought in on trains and by auto from Canada over the road from Boston and New York, and, above all, moonshine that is the product of a home industry that has grown beyond the infant stage.

This stuff is sold by peddlers, and is hawked about more or less openly by itinerant prospective purchasers are likely to be found. It can be said that no man with a price in his pocket and a longing for something with a kick-in it, need long go with his thirst unsatisfied. Some of the booze is the genuine old red-eye of pre-prohibition days—legally made and legally sold. More of it is the product of inexperienced and unscrupulous rectifiers.

The "larger" portion of it is moonshine. It is on the moonshine making that the police have largely concentrated their efforts. Already a truck load of stills has been seized and sent to Boston and another load is nearly ready for despatch.

Jakey Worst of All

And then comes "jakey." Under the law, as it is at present interpreted in Lowell, "jakey" has moonshine, and all its confederates, beaten to a frazzle as a producer of the kind of stupefaction and paralysis that is called "drunkenness" that results in men being landed in the hands of the police. "Jakey" is almost as freely sold as the current that flows down the Merrimack river. Under the law, as it is at present interpreted, Jamaica ginger, containing as high as 97 per cent. of pure alcohol may be purchased by anyone, and, apparently, sold by anyone. Under the present interpretation of the law, to secure a conviction for selling "jakey" illegally, it is necessary to prove that it is disposed of for beverage purposes.

The ban on the sale of Jamaica ginger, recently announced by the commissioner of internal revenue, does not become effective for 90 days.

Up to the Police

Why don't the police clean up the situation? is frequently asked. If any man who has the price and wants a drink, can buy it in Lowell, why can't the cops get the sellers?

This question was put up to Superintendent Welch. His answer, in substance, was that the police cannot afford all the time to enforcing the prohibitory laws; that they have other duties to perform. He says that to properly cope with the situation, a larger police force is necessary.

Miss Skilton's View

As to the charge that there has been an increase in immorality under prohibition, Miss Emily M. Skilton, police lieutenant, says that while cases of young girls going wrong have become more numerous, she does not believe that changes in conditions as regards the sale and use of liquor have anything to do with it. There was during the summer a wave of offenses against the law, she says, but she believes that the proportion of offenses against the law, which was in any way connected with prohibition.

As Probation Officer Sees It

Probation Officer Edward F. Skilton, who has had many years of experience around the courts, thinks that the number of cases of vice and family desertion have greatly increased under prohibition.

One of the effects of the present laxity of enforcement of the dry laws is that a large number of drunks reach the hands of the police in a condition that was seldom approached in the wet days. They are suffering from acute poisoning, and in many cases it is necessary to send them to the Chaffoux Street hospital before they can be arraigned in court. Men who, in the old days, would have been discharged and permitted to go to their homes are now sent to jail because they are not in fit condition to be allowed at large.

C.M.A.C. MEETING

A joint meeting of the executives of the French speaking male and female veterans of this city will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in the hall of the French speaking veterans, 100 Pawtucket street for the purpose of making arrangements for a big mass meeting of all the French speaking veterans of the city which will be held in the near future. The chairman of the committee are Onesime Tremblay and Mrs. L. P. Tarocette.

IMPORTANT CHARTER SUGGESTION

The attention of the charter commission and other citizens interested in the subject of charter reform is respectfully called to a very important suggestion made by the C.M.A.C. in the "Quarter of a Century" column of another page. It is a part of a report of a special commission appointed to investigate the finances of this city 25 years ago. It contains some recommendations for improvements in the city charter.

CONDITION STILL SERIOUS

The condition of Master Donald Walsh of Rosemary avenue, who was struck by an automobile truck Thursday afternoon is somewhat improved, but the doctor says that the boy's condition is still considered serious.

A mosque and a Musliman's university, originally planned for Algeria, are to be built in Paris.

LOCAL GIRLS TAKE PART

Lowell Girls in Junior Show at Mount Holyoke College

That all important event of junior year, the presentation of the "class show," took place at Mount Holyoke college last evening. The production, a happy combination of delicate fantasy and vivacious musical comedy, was entitled "The Color Seeker." Miss E. Ashton of San Diego, Cal. and Elizabeth L. Osmond of Boston were the authors of the play. Music, dancing, costuming, and setting were the original work of the class, each member of which had some part in the production.

The story, set in a Greenwich Village atmosphere, is that of an artist, successful but dissatisfied because he has never been able to produce on canvas the "pure color" of which he has dreamed. In search of this ideal, he is led by the Moon Queen on a visit to the moon, where he thinks he finds what he has been seeking. In the end, however, he discovers that he is mistaken—the one perfect color is that of the daylight on the face of his wife.

Perhaps the work of the choruses was the most effective feature of the performance. In the first act a group of picturesque models in brilliant colored smocks and black velvet tunics did a modern dance to a breezy song. Of a different nature was the Fletchery dance by little folk in brown freely costumes with flashing lights. The costumes worn in the dances of the second act were particularly striking. The Gypsy representatives wore costumes shaped like cut stones with gold head-dresses. The Northern Lights were in metallic cloth in pastel shades in long flowing lines. The Color Sprites were grouped to represent an iceberg which burst into colors—shades of yellow, green, lavender, and grey. In the last act the dance of the Hearth Fire Fairies in flame colored chiffon with gray scarfs was charming for its color and rhythm.

A delightful comic element was introduced in the second act by the character of the Man in the Moon. With his round gold face and clever eyes, who were on the properties committee.

RECRUITER FROM OKLAHOMA

Lieut. Col. G. A. Halley of Fort Sill, Okla., who has been in charge of the local recruiting station located in the Mansur block in Central street, Lieut. Col. Halley has been in the city for a few days. He is a man well posted in military affairs. He urges the young men of Lowell to enlist in the United States army. He has in the history of the United States the government offered such inducements to army men as it is doing at present. He says that he has seen his home in Bridge street during his stay in this city.

Lowell girls at Mount Holyoke who had a part in the production are: Miss Doris L. Howard, who was in the Fletchery Dance, and Miss Irene L. Kirby and Miss Elizabeth Tubhill, who were on the properties committee.

HELD "MOVIE BALL"

Novel Dancing Party in Merrimack Gardens by Users of the Merrimack Square Theatre

The users of the Merrimack Square theatre, conducted an exceptionally pretty and novel dancing party in the Merrimack Gardens last evening. The young men termed the affair a "movie ball," and added to the regular decorations of the hall were pictures of prominent movie actors and actresses. During the evening, these were given out by drawing. Nearly 250 couples enjoyed a long dance order. The officers of the party were: General manager, Joseph V. Flanagan; assistant general manager, Francis Mullan; floor director, Joseph Ward; assistant floor director, Harold Doyle; treasurer, Manuel Joseph.

Asthma Wouldn't Let Him Lie Down

Hasn't Had a Sign of Trouble Now for Over Nine Months

"A year ago I had asthma so bad my friends thought I would never get over it. I had doctor after doctor, but for 3 weeks, I had not even slept. I was suffering from asthma. Then I heard of Milks Emulsion and started using it. It was only two days later that I could go to bed and sleep soundly. After that, I was completely cured. It is over 3 months now since I quit taking Milks Emulsion, and I haven't had a symptom of asthma since. I am now as healthy as a horse. W. Baker, R.F.D. 1, Latrobe, Pa.

Why shouldn't Milks Emulsion help you? It has worked wonders for others. It will help you, too.

Milks Emulsion is a pleasant, nutritive food and a corrective medicine. It restores healthy, natural bowel action, cures indigestion, and builds up the system. It promotes appetite and quickly puts the digestive organs in shape to assimilate food. As a builder of muscle and strength, C.M.A.C. has it strongly recommended to those whose sickness has weakened, and is a powerful aid in resisting and repairing the effects of water, and other diseases of the stomach and bowels. It is the only cod liver oil emulsion made, and it is the only one that is eaten with a spoon like ice cream.

No matter how severe your case, you are urged to try Milks Emulsion under this guarantee: Take six bottles of Milks Emulsion, and if not satisfied with the results, your money will be promptly refunded. Y. M. C. I. CARNIVAL IS BIG SUCCESS

The same success which attended the two previous presentations of the Y.M.C.I. carnival in the institute rooms in Blackpole street was enjoyed last night. A large crowd found adequate enjoyment visiting the booths or dancing, while the older folks appreciated the concert and the one-act sketch, "The Little Girl." Those taking part in the sketch were Thomas Beane, Michael Mahoney, John Payne and Mary O'Keefe. After the play Patrick Maguire entertained with songs, and the Davie sisters with dancing specialties. Thomas Carlin and Ernest Reddy also rendered solos. This afternoon a lollypop matinee was held for the children.

MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN

Girl Scout Troops Drive Ended This Week—Final Returns Not Yet In

Lowell and Dracut Contribute $1850

Although final returns are not yet in from the 114 cities and towns in Massachusetts where there are Girl Scout troops, there is no doubt that the membership campaign, which ended this week was successful.

There are 7500 Girl Scouts in the state and it was hoped that each Girl Scout would secure pledges amounting to $10. This would make a total for the campaign of approximately $75,000, and from present indications there is every reason to believe that this amount and perhaps more will be realized.

The following named towns and their quotas are as follows:

Dorchester	$11,000
New Bedford	8,000
Newton	2,750
Lowell and Dracut	1,850
Worcester	1,800
Weymouth	370
Lexington	510
Malden	540
Milton	550
Woburn	160
Winchester	350

Three Killed in Auto Crash

HAVERHILL, Nov. 20.—William M. Moore, aged 51, of 11 Seventh avenue, John Smythe, aged 42, Emerson street and Walter Shaw, aged 37, living in Essex street, were fatally injured early this morning when an automobile in which they were riding and driven by Shaw, crashed into an electric pole, on the Amesbury road, near Saltonstall. Moore died on the way to the hospital. Shaw and Smythe died at the hospital about two hours later. All sustained fractured skulls. The police have been unable to find an eye-witness of the accident. The machine was proceeding toward Haverhill from Merrimack when it crashed into the electric pole. Shaw was thrown 25 feet and Moore and Smythe were picked up from beneath the machine. They were taken to the hospital in the police ambulance.

Urge Americans to Send Food

BERLIN, Nov. 19.—Appeals to Americans to send food drafts immediately to German friends and relatives have been issued by the American relief organization here. It is pointed out that if the drafts are sent at once the organization can issue food packages for Christmas presents. Warehouses in Berlin, Hamburg, Dresden and Frankfurt announce unusual demands, chiefly in the name of children, who are said to need milk and sugar.

American Airplanes Enter Mexico

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Two American commercial aeroplanes, the first to enter Mexico, have arrived at Chihuahua City, en route from Lincoln, Neb., to Mexico City, according to advices to the department of commerce. The object of the trip is to mark landing fields and advertise and sell American aeroplanes and automobile trucks.

HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS AS CHEER LEADERS

The routine work at this high school is sometimes broken by novelty and now the girls are taking their turn at it. For years past, cheering at football, track meets, or baseball games has rested mainly upon and has been directed by the boys. But now, since the women got the vote, the girls have decided to do some cheering by themselves, led by their own cheer leaders. The boy cheer leaders objected to the idea strenuously, but the girls are going through with the plan, and have already held several practice sessions in the school hall, excluding all boys.

The girls chosen as leaders are the Misses Laurin, McEvoy, Garvey and Groulx. The boys are beginning to sit up and take notice because the girls may show them up at the Lawrence football game.

On Friday evening after Thanksgiving, the senior staff will stage a dance in St. Anne's parish house, the proceeds of which will go to make up a deficit of $150 from last year's sports.

BRIDGE CONTRACT LET

Announcement was made last evening that the contract to repair Central bridge so that it may be reopened to heavy traffic had been awarded to the Chelmsford Forge & Iron Works company by Commissioner Dennis A. Murphy, subject to the approval of the municipal council. It had originally been planned to have the work done by employees of the highways department, but later it was decided to let the work out by contract. The firm which is to do the work will start Monday morning and expects to have one side of the plank-ing ready for traffic within two weeks.

The sign of a reliable dealer and the world's best Gasoline

Every motor highway and byway throughout picturesque New England and New York is a part of the long "Socony Trail".

Ye Olde Towne Mill, New London, Conn. This is said to be the oldest mill in America. It was built in 1650 for John Winthrop, who founded New London.

MANY quaint sections of old New London are familiar to thousands of New England motorists. There is a main Socony depot there and many well-distributed filling stations to assure a dependable supply of gasoline and motor oils for all who need them.

The excellence of Socony products and Socony service is uniformly high. Unequalled experience in petroleum refining and progressive methods of distribution have made them possible. Socony gasoline is always clean and powerful. Every drop of every gallon is the same whenever and wherever you buy it. It vaporizes quickly, ignites easily and burns completely in summer and winter alike. It is the standard of all motor fuels. Use Socony products regularly. You will notice a favorable difference in the performance of your motor—more power, greater mileage.

Look for the red, white and blue Socony sign.

American Ignores British Demands

LONDON, Nov. 20.—Washington D. Vanderlip, the American who recently announced the granting by Soviet Russia of important concessions in Siberia to an American syndicate which he represented, was met shortly after his arrival here from Russia by a demand from the British authorities for an inspection of the documents in his possession, he declared in a statement today. Mr. Vanderlip, who arrived in London last evening, said he was visited this morning by officials of the British home office, who demanded to see his personal papers and contracts with the Russian soviet government. Mr. Vanderlip declared he refused to show the officials these documents.

Big Fire at New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 20.—Fire which started near Congress street early this morning in a new banana wharf, destroyed that pier and quickly spread along the river front until the docks for a length of four squares were aflame. The Truxillo and the Poncelet, two vessels tied up at the burning wharf, were towed to safety, but later an oil tank in the stern of the Poncelet exploded. Several million feet of lumber owned by the government was destroyed. After a hard fight the fire was brought under control.

Mill Stories for Mill Workers

Lowell Mills 50 Years Hence

What will the mills of Lowell be like 50 years hence?

A little group of mill men happened to meet by chance the other evening. They had talked over many subjects they were interested in. As conversation lagged, one of the party shot out the interrogation above.

There was a pause. It took a little time to turn the vision that had been focused on the affairs of the past and present so far forward into the future. Then one member of the group bit off the end of a fresh cigar and ventured a speculation. His connection with the mills is along mechanical lines.

"Fifty years from today," he said, "every canal in Lowell will have been filled up, the surface seeded to grass and turned into a parkway."

"Running water through a canal as a means of distributing power is wasteful. We hang on to it today because it would cost a lot of money to substitute something more economical. If the old bunch who started things going here—Boott, Lowell, Lawrence and the others—were to do their work today they would begin in a different way from what they did."

Power Station at Falls

"At Pawtucket falls would be a big hydro-electric generating station. It would generate all the power that the falls could furnish and send it over high tension wires to the mills to be applied to running the machinery. Think of the saving from not having an intricate system of canals to keep up, bridges to build and repair, and the inevitable wastage of having so many water wheels when a few would do better service."

"Then, too, 50 years from now, the lines of shafting and belts will have been ripped out of the mills, and every loom, mule, spinning frame and other machine will have power taken to it over a wire that will operate an individual motor."

"By that time also the flow of the Merrimack will have been increased and stabilized so that it will be producing about double the available horsepower that is produced today. There are mills, too, in Lowell today that are exhausting live steam against the nearly 15 pounds of pressure of the atmosphere. That will have ended. We shall still have to use coal, but we shall have stopped wasting it."

Good Days to Come

"Sort of millennium, you're planning for, eh, Bill?" interjected a member of the group. "We'll be working an hour a day then, with 45 minutes off for lunch, I suppose."

"No," said another member of the party, who happens to be well up in labor subjects, "the reduction of the number of working hours has about reached its limit. Intelligent laboring men are beginning to see that cutting down production, by limiting unduly the hours of labor, is not profitable. It results inevitably in the end in there being less goods for consumption, and, regardless of high or low wages, lowers the general standard of living, and that is the only thing that really counts."

"Fifty years from today, strikes and labor disturbances will have become a thing of the past. Labor will be represented on the board of directors of every mill. The workers will own the mills. Representatives of the toilers will sit with the treasurers of the corporations when they hold their regular meetings here in Lowell. Capital and labor will have learned to play the game squarely together because their interests are identical. Every mill will have its board of arbitration to settle factory differences. There will be a general arbitration council to take up questions that pertain to the whole city, and there will be similar state and national boards."

Americianize Them All

"There will be few so-called foreigners in the mills. We shall have Americianized them. We may have a law, similar to that already enacted in a neighboring state, that no person who cannot speak and write English shall be employed in the mills."

"While you're telling us your pipe dreams," interjected a young man with an interest in sports, "What about daylight saving?"

"Oh, we shall have outgrown that nonsense. We shall change our working hours to fit the seasons of the year and not our clocks."

"Well, since you all think you are prophets, I'll tell you what I believe we shall have 50 years from now," continued the man of sports. "Every mill will have a first-class baseball and football team, and we shall have inter-mill leagues, and games for the championship of the city will be played on one of the finest athletic fields in the world over on the First street oval."

More Attractive Mills

"I will tell you what I think," interrupted a man, who has been known to appear at his work on a midsummer morning with a bunch of sweaters in his buttonhole, "I believe that by 50 years from today, a lot of progress will have been made toward having more attractive places to work in. The starting brick walls will have been climbing over them and hiding them. There will be window boxes of plants. Every bit of green around the factories will be tended and cherished."

"Come off your perch, boys, you're all dotty," briskly ventured another individual who previously had been quietly ruminating. His work in the mills takes him through many different departments for its performance. "I went into a shoe factory in Boston a little while ago. The messenger boys were all on roller skates. It was a marvel how quickly and easily they dashed all over the plant. I hope the day is coming when men of my kind can get around in that way."

The serious-minded men who had been picturing to themselves what the mills of Lowell would be fifty years hence laughed and the conversation lapsed back to affairs of present day life.

City Primaries Here Tuesday

Charles J. Morse, Dennis A. Murphy, Cornelius J. O'Neill, Cecil G. Palmer, Michael J. Quinn, Ernest W. Robinson, Robert R. Thomas and Frank A. Warnock.

The school committee aspirants are Albert Bergeron, William H. Conroy, John A. Crowley, Charles A. Donahue, Edward J. Donnelly, Henry F. Doran, William H. Looney, Elmore I. MacPhie, Anthony Phouare, Fred G. Roife, William R. Thompson and James C. Warner.

Each voter will have the privilege of voting for two candidates for aldermen and three for the school committee, although twice that number will actually be nominated. However, if one votes for more than the specified number, his or her ballot will not count.

The members of the municipal council whose terms expire on the first Monday of January, 1921, are Commissioner George E. Marchand of the department of public property and recreation, and Commissioner Dennis A. Murphy of the department of streets and highways. Both are candidates for re-election.

Of the other candidates for the council Messrs. Brown, Morse and Warnock have previously been members.

The three retiring members of the school committee this year are John B. Hayes, Gardner W. Pearson and Dr. James H. Rooney. None of them seeks re-election. Of the aspirants for the nomination to the committee, Mr. Crowley was once nominated for the position but never elected. Dr. Thompson was a member of the committee in 1915 and 1919. Mr. Doran is a member of the Lowell charter commission but never held other public office.

The polls will open promptly at noon and close at 6 o'clock. Definite information as to who the nominees are should be available by 10.30 or 11 o'clock.

The four candidates for the municipal council who are nominated next Tuesday will contest for the two positions which are to become vacant next Monday at noon or 10.30 at the city election Tuesday, December 7.

Similarly, the six school committee nominees will contest for the three available positions.

The primaries campaign has been exceptionally quiet, due perhaps to a reaction after the presidential contest. Only a few of the aldermanic candidates have taken to the stump and while they have been heard with attention, there has not been the sensationalism that lent a touch of interest to other campaigns.

Although nominally the men who are elected next month are to serve for two years, no matter of probability the entire 1921 government will be wiped out at the end of the year by a change of charter. The charter commission is working on a document which will be the legislative basis for the next year's election.

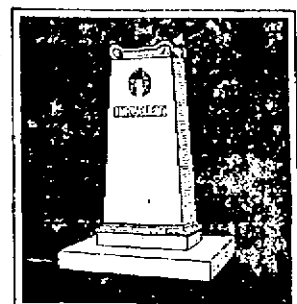

The polling places next Tuesday will be the same as those used at the state election on November 2. Some 23,000 ballots have been prepared for the occasion and are now under lock and key at city hall. Everything is in shape for the efficient conduct of the primaries.

References at Election

Although there will be no references on the ballot next Tuesday, at the election on December 14, Lowell voters will probably be called upon to decide whether they wish to continue Sunday sports in this city next year. Section 8 of Chapter 240 of the Acts of 1920 says in part: "At every city election in the current year, the question of such acceptance (referring to the Sunday sports bill) shall be submitted to the voters. But in any subsequent year said question shall be submitted only upon a petition signed and filed by not less than ten per cent. of the voters."

The local city council accepted the act last spring, but such acceptance applied only to the present year. If Sunday sports are to be allowed here next year, the legislative act must be favored by the voters at the city election next month.

FEARFUL TORTURES OF IRISH PRISONERS

The special correspondent of the London "Daily News," an Englishman writes from Galway City in the issue of that paper of October 21st the following account of conditions in Galway and the action of the government forces:

"According to the police, organized republicanism—in other words the Sinn Féin machine—has been smashed in County Clare, where Sinn Féin first won a seat from the home rulers. The police are now smashing it in County Galway.

"Let me describe how the system which produces this strange result of destroying the machine and increasing the output is being administered. It is a comparatively simple system to work once the preliminaries have been arranged. By the usual methods of beleaguering governments, whether in Ireland or in Russia, a fairly complete and accurate list of active revolutionaries has been secured. With this as a chart the police methodically set to work more than a month ago not, as Sir Hamar Greenwood puts it, to prevent and detect crime and to arrest the criminal but to strike terror with so savage a hand into the heart of the whole community as to force it to evacuate, so to speak, its 'bad men.' They started by indiscriminate firing and rather more discriminate bombing. They have reached during the past few days the stage of wholesale whipping.

"What the next development may be before Galway is as blessed as Clare I shall not try to guess. Part of my time has been occupied with interviewing the young men whom the police have been whipping, kicking and otherwise instructing in the elements of British citizenship."

Another report by the same London paper tells of prisoners being tortured with piers and other forms of infliction until the blood flowed from the bodies. The special cases thus described were those of Thomas Hales and a man named Harle living at Bandon in the county of Cork. The torture in both cases was most inhuman and outrageous. It included flogging until the blood came, blows with revolvers, threats of death, lining the prisoners up before a firing squad to be shot of the alternative of giving information of the Irish republican soldiers. Finally the two men were landed in a hospital both tortured almost to death and one of them almost insane.

CHELMSFORD NEWS

Woman Acting Chief of Police—Other Items

Mr. and Mrs. George M. Wright and Mr. and Mrs. B. Emerson, all of Chelmsford Centre, have gone to Tampa, Fla., for the winter, the party having made the trip to the southern city in Mr. Wright's automobile. While en route to Tampa the tourists pitched their tent on one of the many camping grounds in the south and were duly initiated in what is known as the Tin Can Club. This is an organization composed of automobile tourists throughout this country but particularly in the western and southern states. Its aim is the protection of its members while on the road and also to establish camping grounds in the south and west.

Mr. Wright is the chief of police for the town of Chelmsford and during his absence his position is being temporarily filled by his daughter, Miss Ethel

L. Wright. Of course Miss Wright does not make any arrests, for she has not been sworn in as a police officer but, nevertheless, she handles all the mail addressed to the chief of police. She does practically all the corresponding with the district attorney in matters pertaining to the police department. She receives police notices from other cities and towns and turns them over to the officers of the town. In other words, she is the chief of police but without official authority, for the selectmen are supreme in police matters, and she is filling the position very acceptably.

Ladies' Whist Club
Members of the Ladies' Whist club of the Centre village were highly entertained last evening at the home of Miss M. Marion Adams in the Centre village. There were about 25 members in attendance and all took an active interest in the whist contest, which occupied the early part of the evening. At the close of the game suitable prizes were awarded the winners and later an entertainment program was given and luncheon was served.

Young Folks Entertained
The young people of the south part of the town were entertained in a most enjoyable manner Wednesday evening in Liberty hall. The affair was in the form of a dance and social and was largely attended. Concert numbers were given in the early part of the evening and general dancing was enjoyed till a seasonable hour. The success of the affair was due to the efforts of Mrs. John B. Emerson.

Building Boom Expected
That portion of Chelmsford Centre commonly called the "Subway" will be the scene of considerable building activities in the early spring if plans that are now under way are carried out. A tract of 12 acres of land in that district is now being developed by Wright & Bean and already over 30 house lots have been sold. These lots contain between 2000 and 5000 square feet, and the purchasers are planning to build homes in the spring. It is expected that before the winter is over between 50 and 75 lots will have been sold and it is said that the "Subway" will see more building activities during the year 1921 than the entire town has seen in years.

Unitarian Society
Committees have been appointed by the Unitarian society of the Centre village for arrangements for the annual Thanksgiving ball, which will be held Thanksgiving night in the town hall. Plans for the affair are progressing and it is expected that this year's event will be a banner one in the history of the society.

Chelmsford Catholic Club
The Catholic residents of Chelmsford Centre are now worshipping in I.O.O.F. hall, where every Sunday morning masses are being celebrated. Services have been conducted in the hall for some time. The Chelmsford Catholic club, composed of men and women, has undertaken to raise funds for the erection of a Catholic church in their district and towards this end they are now organizing a bazaar, which will be held in the near future in the I.O.O.F. hall. The program will consist of an entertainment program and general dancing. A general sale of food-stuff and necessities will be conducted and it is expected a substantial sum will be realized in this manner.

Community Club
The clothing efficiency group of the Chelmsford Centre Community club met with Miss Margaret Robinson at the town hall Thursday afternoon. There were about 25 women present, and all took up the work of drafting sleeve and skirt patterns. The next meeting will be held Friday afternoon, Dec. 3.

Matrimonial
Mr. John Reedy and Miss Elizabeth Marden, two well known and popular residents of the North village, were united in marriage Wednesday evening, the ceremony being performed at St. John's church by Rev. Fr. Linehan. The couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Noble. At the close of the ceremony the happy couple were tendered a reception at the home of the bride in Princeton street and later they left on a honeymoon trip. Upon their return they will make their home in North Chelmsford.

Football Game
McCabe's field, North village, will be the scene of a hotly contested football game Sunday afternoon when the North Chelmsford football team and the Chelmsford Centre aggregation will meet in a final contest. These two teams battled on the gridiron some time ago, but the contest was a draw, the score being 0 to 0. It is expected that Sunday's game will be full of "pep" for both teams are out to win the championship. The North Chelmsford team is being managed by McElroy, while the Chelmsford Centre is managed by McElroy.

Work on the Highway
Work on the state highway between North Chelmsford and Chelmsford Centre has been suspended for the winter months. About 75 per cent of the work is completed and it is expected that operations will be resumed in the early spring.

Cadets on a Hike
The Cadets of St. John's church went off a state hike recently and all enjoyed the affair immensely. The boys were headed by Richard Lyons and John Hafez, two veterans of the world war, who have had considerable experience in the hiking line, and their march was to West Chelmsford. Upon reaching their destination the little fellows enjoyed luncheon and a good rest and then they tramped back to their headquarters, where they were addressed briefly by Messrs. Lyons and Hafez on the benefits to be derived from hikes in the open country. The Cadets are planning a social, which they will hold in the near future.

Personal Item
The many friends of Selectman J. P. Dunigan will be pleased to learn that he is about his business again after being confined to his home several days because of illness.

INJUNCTION AGAINST STRIKERS
READING, Pa., Nov. 20.—The Berks county court yesterday continued a preliminary injunction against 11 Reading iron company strikers, enjoining them from interfering with the business of the company. The injunction against 11 others was dissolved. Nearly 6000 men have been on strike more than four months and have lost more than $2,500,000 in wages.

14-Year-Old Girl Wins 450 Ribbons

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—Winner of 450 ribbons, 75 cups and numerous other prizes as a daredevil rider and jumper—and not even yet a debutante—is the record of 14-year-old Miss Becky Lanier, who has brought many thrills to Madison Square Garden horse show visitors this week. She has won 50 ribbons during the present meet. Her father, Charles D. Lanier, a follower of the hounds, of Greenwich, Conn., said Becky began to ride at five years of age, when she used to steal out to the field and ride bareback on some of his most frisky ponies.

PROBE BRINGS DROP IN BUILDING COSTS

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—Disintegration of the contractor-dealer-labor combines forming New York's alleged "building trust" has begun and prices of construction materials have tumbled over and dropped since active warfare against these interests was opened. It was revealed yesterday by witnesses before the joint legislative committee conducting the investigation.

Increased productivity of laborers has been apparent since the investigating committee began exposing one scandal after another and the grand jury started returning indictments, employers testified. There came evidence to show countrywide control of production and prices in marble, cement, limestone and other trades. National associations are threatening these industries, it was alleged.

More than a year ago, Samuel Untermyer, counsel for the committee, declared if given an opportunity to conduct an inquiry into these "combinations," he could get prices tumbling and prices in marble, cement, limestone and other trades. National associations are threatening these industries, it was alleged.

VISITOR FROM ASSYRIA

Archbishop Khoury Celebrated Mass at St. Jean Baptiste Church Today

A pontifical high mass was celebrated at St. Jean Baptiste church at 10 o'clock this morning by Rt. Rev. Shakhallah Khoury, archbishop of the Maronites of Tyre, Assyria, who is the guest of his people and the Oblate fathers of St. Joseph's parish of this city. The distinguished prelate was assisted at the altar by Rev. Fr. Bostani, pastor of St. Anthony's church in Lawrence. The archbishop left this noon for Lawrence, where he will celebrate mass tomorrow and later he will go to Boston and other New England centres, where his people are located.

Last evening the visiting prelate was entertained at luncheon at the Richardson hotel and later in the evening he addressed his people at St. Joseph's college hall in Merrimack street. Archbishop Khoury has been in America since last May. He came here after receiving a special permission from the pope to make an investigation of the spiritual condition of the Maronites in America. The archbishop visited the pope with the Maronite patriarch after both had attended the peace conference in Paris in an endeavor to secure the independence of his country. The visitor was quite at home at the peace conference for he speaks French fluently and in addition he has a thorough knowledge of the Italian language.

Mrs. Gould Speaks to Mothers

In a nice letter to the Dr. J. F. True & Co., Mrs. Irving Gould of Chesterland, Ohio, says: "As my boy is sick and in much need of your Elixir, I ought not to be without it. I cannot speak too much praise. Dr. True's Elixir has done wonderful things for my children, and I will gladly answer any mother's letters in regard to the medicine and suffering children."

Mrs. Gould is one of thousands of mothers who look after the health of their children by giving them Dr. True's Elixir, the Family Laxative and Worm Expeller. If your children have these symptoms, give them Dr. True's Elixir.

Symptoms of Worms: Bad breath, swollen upper lip, sore stomach, restlessness, pale face, eyes heavy and dull, twitching eyelids, itching of the nose and rectum, short dry cough, red points on the tongue, starting during sleep, slow fever. Dr. True's Elixir, the Family Laxative and Worm Expeller, is sold at all dealers. Three sizes. Buy the large size.—Adv.

Color Returned To Her Cheeks

This Massachusetts Woman Wants Others to Know of Remedy That Restored Her Health

When the color fades from your cheeks and lips and you lose weight, become nervous and suffer from indigestion, headaches and sleeplessness, the cause is to be sought in the state of the blood. The blood goes to every part of the body and when it is deficient, the general health is affected. Build up the blood and you will be surprised how quickly your appetite improves. The sparkle will return to your eye, the color of health to your cheeks and new energy will circulate through your entire system.

This was the experience of Mrs. Albert Demers, of No. 26 Payson avenue, Dorchester, Mass. She says: "For the benefit of others who may be envied a great deal of suffering, I would like to tell how I regained my health. I was very thin and did not have a bit of color. I was so weak that a little effort caused shortness of breath and when I climbed up stairs I was left practically exhausted. My nerves were so unstrung that I had crying spells and could not control myself. My sleep was not refreshing. I had no appetite and suffered from severe pains across my back. I also had headaches and a great deal of nervousness. I was very melancholy."

"I read about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and remembering that I had heard from friends how good they were I got a box and in a short time began to feel a little better. Soon the headaches disappeared and as I continued taking the pills the color returned to my cheeks and lips. I have a good appetite now and I feel stronger and better in every way. I also thank Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

Get a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at your druggist's today or write to the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., enclosing sixty cents and a box will be sent you, postpaid. A little book, "Building Up the Blood," which explains the treatment, will be sent free on request.

SEAVEY—Died this morning at the Chelmsford street hospital, Fred L. Seavey, aged 41 years. He leaves to survive his wife, Mrs. Emily (Keene) Seavey, two sons, Fred and Charles; three daughters, Susan, Georgiana and Alice Seavey, and three sisters, Mary, Susan and George. He was a member of the Spanish War Veterans association and American Legion. The funeral will be held at the home, 35 Sparks street, by Undertakers James F. O'Donnell & Sons.

FUNERALS

WILLIAMS—The funeral services of Mrs. Orilla Holbrook Williams were held at the Tabot Memorial chapel, yesterday afternoon, Rev. George H. Wright, pastor of the Ministry-at-Large, officiating. Burial was in the family lot in the Lowell cemetery. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertaker George W. Healey.

MARTIN—The funeral services of Rev. George E. Martin, D.D., formerly pastor of the First Congregational church, were held at the Abundantia Congregational church, Thursday afternoon and were very impressive. Rev. Dr. Martin, former pastor of that church, together with Rev. Dr. Drew and Rev. Mr. Mayle took part in the service. The choir sang several beautiful selections. The floral tributes were many and beautiful. Members of his former parish, at St. Louis, Brockton and Wrentham were present and also 20 former members of Kirk Street church, Conn., for burial.

TURCOTTE—The funeral of Miss Mathilda Turcotte took place this morning from her home, 22 Decatur street. Solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated at St. Jean Baptiste church at 9 o'clock, Rev. Rosario Gallo, O.M.I., assisted by Rev. Armand Baron, O.M.I., as deacon and Rev. Charles Denzoi, O.M.I., as sub deacon. The choir under the direction of Joseph Fucini, who also presided at the organ, rendered the Gregorian chant. The bearers were Eliezer Turcotte, Rodolphe and Hector Lapellegue, Romeo Sylvestre, Olegio, Daniel and Henri (Louis) Turcotte. The service was represented by Misses Clorinda Heroux, Marguerite Mallhot, Marie L. Gauthier, Florida Sylvestre, Jeanne and Marguerite Geoffroy. Burial was in the family lot in St. Joseph's cemetery, where the committal prayers were read by Rev. E. J. Carlier, O.M.I. Funeral arrangements were in

Funeral services will be held at the home of his widow, Mrs. Rose Mary Coleman, 162 Wilder street, Sunday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock. Friends are invited without further notice. Members of the Spanish-American War Veterans association and Post St. American Legion, are especially invited to attend. The funeral arrangements are in charge of Undertaker George H. Healey.

CARD OF THANKS

I take this means of expressing my sincere thanks to my relatives, friends and neighbors, who, by their acts of kindness and sympathy, floral offerings and spiritual benedictions, helped to lighten my great sorrow in the death of my beloved husband, Frank J. Collins. To all I am deeply grateful and each and every one will ever be held in loving remembrance by me.

Color Returned To Her Cheeks

This Massachusetts Woman Wants Others to Know of Remedy That Restored Her Health

When the color fades from your cheeks and lips and you lose weight, become nervous and suffer from indigestion, headaches and sleeplessness, the cause is to be sought in the state of the blood. The blood goes to every part of the body and when it is deficient, the general health is affected. Build up the blood and you will be surprised how quickly your appetite improves. The sparkle will return to your eye, the color of health to your cheeks and new energy will circulate through your entire system.

To the Citizens of Lowell

I am a candidate for the nomination for reelection as alderman of the City of Lowell.

I believe that my experience as a public official has fitted me to represent the people of my city for another term.

I shall, if nominated and elected, give a clean, decent and progressive management of public affairs, as in the past.

I pledge to the citizens of Lowell, if nominated, my promise to administer the business of the city in an upright and straightforward manner.

Nine Persons Burned to Death in New York Apartment House Fire This Morning

ONLY ONE LEFT IN TWO FAMILIES

Man, Wife, Their Four Children and Three of Another Family Perished in Flames

14 Other Families Escaped or Were Rescued by Firemen—Thrilling Rescues

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—Nine persons, constituting every member but one of two entire families lost their lives here early today in a fire which destroyed a five story apartment house at 307 West 146th street. Fourteen other families escaped or were rescued by firemen.

Originating, fire authorities say, in a baby carriage on the first floor of the brick structure, the fire swept upward through open stairways, cutting off escape through the halls. Nearly a hundred men, women and children, clad in night clothes, swarmed to the fire escapes, some making their way to the ground while others huddled terror-stricken on platforms in mid-air until carried to safety.

The dead were all found on the fifth and top floor after the flames had been controlled. They were: Raphael Gebbia, his wife Anna and their four children, who ranged in years from seven down to one and one-half; Mrs. Ada Frank; Mrs. Bertha Reynolds, her sister, and Ruth Reynolds, a girl of 16.

Charles Frank, overcome by smoke, fainted over a window sill and was dragged to safety and revived by a man who reached out from an adjoining building and drew him across the narrow open space. Mrs. Dora Schofield, living on the second floor, escaped with minor injuries.

Robert Walker, a neighborhood resident, climbed a fire escape before the arrival of firemen and carried to safety an infant which had been abandoned in its crib by a family living on the second floor. Other residents of the doomed building escaped over adjoining roofs.

CITY PRIMARIES HERE TUESDAY

Long List of Aspirants for Positions in 1921 Government

Quiet Campaign Precedes Primaries—Referenda at December Election

A fairly heavy vote is expected to be cast at the city primaries to be held here next Tuesday, from 12 noon to 9 p. m., both because of the advent of women into general suffrage and because of the large number of candidates in the field.

With a total registration of more than 30,000 men and women, and 26 candidates aspiring to places in the municipal council or the school committee, there is abundant reason to anticipate a larger vote than has been recorded in past years. While the campaign up to the present writing has not aroused the widespread interest that has been noted in previous contests, this fact is offset by the wide acquaintance of practically every one of the 26 candidates and the undoubted interest which women will take in their first opportunity to vote for municipal officers in general.

The candidates for aldermen, 11 in number, are the following: George E. Brown, David Dickson, Michael H. Harrington, Fred G. Leary, George E. Marchand, John J. McPadden.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—President Wilson is now able to walk about the White House without even the aid of a cane, it was stated today at the White House. He uses his wheel chair only for the purpose of an occasional relaxation, it was said.

White House officers declared that the president's health had so far improved as to make it possible for him to address congress in person when it convenes next month, but that Mr. Wilson had as yet made no definite plans to do so.

DIVORCES SON OF BRITISH PEER

Lowell Girl Freed From Dashing British Captain Who Abused Her

Miss Huntton Married Capt. Mitford in Belgium During the War

BOSTON, Nov. 20.—A divorce which was granted yesterday afternoon by Judge Bell to Mrs. Mary Mitford from Capt. Roland Mitford, now in the British army in Egypt, for cruel and abusive treatment and intoxication, ends a romance which began in France during the war.

Mrs. Mitford, who was Miss Huntton of Lowell, after graduating from the Conservatory of Music, went to Europe to complete her musical education. Her companion on the ocean voyage was Mrs. Alice Cram, a sister of ex-Lieut. Gov. Edward P. Barry. She was the democratic candidate for auditor at the state election.

When France was reached the war was already on. Not long after her arrival she met Capt. Mitford, son of

CITY DEPARTMENT FINANCES LOW
The monthly financial report for October, which will come from the printer within a few days, will show very meagre balances in several departments of the city government with which to carry on the year's work. On November 1, for instance, the isolation hospital maintenance appropriation had dwindled down to $1172.57. Originally it was $20,000. The Paige street comfort station appropriation, originally $3000, amounted to only $282.33 on November 1. At the comfort station there can be effected an economy in the purchase of supplies, but the isolation hospital is now going at full blast and more funds will have to be uncovered somewhere if it is to continue its work for the rest of the year.

STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE
In an attempt to avoid striking Ernest Freitas, a young boy, George Stewart of Bellevue street drove an automobile on to the sidewalk on Central street near Charles this morning. Freitas was struck, however, and Stewart rushed him to St. John's hospital, where it was reported that he was only slightly injured.

The Indian head on old pennies was from a drawing of a white girl, Sarah Longacre, wearing a war bonnet.

IS LOWELL WIDE OPEN?

Prevalence of Drunkenness Indicates Great Laxness of Law Enforcement

Survey of Present Conditions—Views of Supt. Welch and Others

All sorts of stories are afloat regarding the effects of prohibition in Lowell and the enforcement, or lack of enforcement, of the law which forbids the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors.

It is possible to hear the opinion frequently expressed that the town is wide open, that more hard stuff is being sold than in the old days when the city had its 100 odd saloons with doors swinging wide for all-comers. Stories are going the rounds that all who have the price can buy their favorite tipple of hard stuff, or of beverages less fiery, and that liquor can be openly purchased in this place or that.

If some stories that are told were worthy of credence, half the homes of the city have been turned into domestic breweries or distilleries for the making of the mild "home brew" or real moonshine. According to some tales, it might be supposed that every other man, if he did not have his own vineyard and wine vaults, at least has access to a plentiful supply of raisins and has on hand a cool bottle or two of vinous beverage that is calculated to produce cozy effects even if the bottles have accumulated none of the cobwebs that denote age.

BURKE FOUND NOT GUILTY

SKOWHEGAN, Me., Nov. 20.—The jury in the second trial of John A. Burke, for the murder of Nelson W. Bartley at Jackman on October 15, 1919, retired at 10:25 a. m. today. The jury brought in a verdict of not guilty this afternoon.

Associate Justice Scott Wilson in his charge to the jury, called attention to the various vital points which must be considered. He referred to the state's claim that the bullet wound in Burke's leg could not have been made by Bartley, but that it was self-inflicted.

He also spoke of the claims of the defense that Burke had insufficient time to have committed the crime and that it was unreasonable to believe that he shot himself.

Judge Wilson then took up the claims of both sides as to rigor mortis, the state claiming the body was placed in the "blow down" immediately after the killing and the defense contending that rigor mortis had been completed when the body was hidden.

He also called attention to the evidence that a pool of blood was found outside the "blow down."

Harvard Top-Heavy Favorite Over Yale in Historic Gridiron Battle at New Haven

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 20.—(By Associated Press)—Harvard and Yale came to grips at football today and the partisan crowd which annually attends this autumnal sports classic was out in force.

As a spectacle, it was the usual rich show. In numbers it exceeded the attendance at any previous football game in this country. Only at automobile speedway races has a greater crowd turned out for a sports event within an enclosure.

50,000 People Attend
The great saucer of the Yale bowl, squalid setting for the 100-yard gridiron on which the climactic game of the two varsity schedules was to be decided, was ringed round by its greatest and gayest display. Fully 50,000 persons were there—74,473 being paid admissions. Many came swathed in skins of seal or mink, squirrel or raccoon, notwithstanding that the day was one of Indian summer mildness. The men, nearly all partisans of Yale or Harvard, included leaders of the country's politics, society or business, many of the latter having abandoned for the time being the concerns of panicky market places to renew college spirit or to get inspiration from the spectacle of man-to-man competition, and a test of team play, with collegiate honors at stake.

Harvard Favorites in Betting
The crimson team which had rested over night at Derby, came to the field with confidence; Yale took the field with hope. For Harvard the season had been successful, and the results of its previous games suggested well for its showing against the ancient rival, Yale. This was reflected by the offers of crimson enthusiasts of wagers at odds of 2 to 1, and 3 to 1, with some Yale takers.

The blue had only hopes to build on its team having suffered reverses in its ante-climax last week at Princeton, and in the game with Boston college several weeks ago. But when the hope was a spirit represented in its bull dog mascot and the undergraduates' slogan, posted in dormitories and in dining halls: "Are we downhearted?" with the answer written boldly, "No."

The lineup was somewhat in doubt before the game, both Coaches Joney of Yale and Fisher of Harvard withholding final word on several positions until their players took the field. Each had its full strength available, and it was believed that virtually two elevens would be used by each before the afternoon was done.

The lineup at the outset was:
YALE: Walker, It. It. Faxon, Acosta, It. It. Tolbert, Cross, C. C. Haverford, Callahan, (Capt.) rg. rg. Woods, Dickens, It. It. Hubbard, Bean, It. It. Brown, Kempson, It. It. O'Neil, Aldrich, It. It. Fitts, Kelley, It. It. Horween, Hefner-Nate, It. It. Brown, Tom Thorp, Columbia, Field, Judge, G. M. Bankhart, of Dartmouth, Head linesman, M. J. Thompson, Georgetown.

FIRST PERIOD
On the kickoff the ball went to Harvard's five yard line from which Owen made a run back through the Yale forces that brought the ball to midfield. Buell, the crimson quarterback advanced 13 yards in a slanting drive. On the next play, Owen was tossed back for a five yard loss. A forward pass attempt was grounded. The crimson turned to Yale's right end for gain on the next play, a pass from Fitts to Buell giving the crimson first down on Yale's 25 yard line. Horween jabbed Yale's line for two yards. Then the play turned. A crimson forward pass, tossed by Buell, was intercepted by Aldrich and it was Yale's ball on her own 25 yard line. There was a fumble in the Yale backfield on the next play, but Sturm recovered. Aldrich punted. Owen recovered. Harvard and was downed by three line tacklers where he stood on Harvard's 40 yard line. The crimson forward passing combination, Buell and Fitts operated for a nine yard gain on Cutler's end of the Yale line. Owen added a yard which brought the ball one foot into Yale territory. Owen kicked outside on Yale's 20 yard line.

Buell Fumbles
After an unsuccessful hit against the Harvard line by Sturm, Aldrich kicked. Buell fumbled the ball on Harvard's 40 yard line where Dickens recovered it and the blue set out for a goal assault, but it was short-lived. Aldrich's forward pass was intercepted by Fitts and the tide of play again had turned to Harvard. Five yards were gained on a line drive and the crimson had the ball on Yale's 45 yard line.

Buell's forward pass grounded, and on the next play, Owen kicked. The drive was low and Kempson picked up the ball on Yale's 20 yard line and ran it back 13 yards before Kane fumbled. Aldrich lost two yards on a simulated kick formation, running into his own interference. This play was called back, and the scrimmage resumed without gain or loss because of offsetting penalties. Aldrich kicked to a fair catch by Buell on Harvard's 40 yard line.

Buell Scores Field Goal
Buell attempted an end run, but was sniped by Cutler. Then Fitts kicked to Yale's 35 yard line where Walker fumbled and it was recovered by two Harvard players. A forward pass, Buell to Owen sent the ball to Yale's 24 yard line. Overhead an airplane circled the bowl and turned away. A push by Owen against the Yale line was repulsed and the forward pass was tried again unsuccessfully, the ball being grounded. Buell scored a field goal from the 35 yard line, the ball rising in a beautiful arc with the wind behind it for a clean cut score. Score: Harvard 3, Yale 0.

Kempson Gains 25 Yards
Cross kicked to Buell on Harvard's three yard line. The runback brought the ball to Harvard's 31 yard line, where Yale's tackling was so hard that Buell lost it but Fitts recovered. The crimson lined up on its 31 yard line. Owen struck in against Acosta, and went back again, a burly guard throwing off his attack. Horween dove over the Yale primary defense for a five yard gain. Owen kicked. Kempson recovered, and circled Harvard's right end for a 25 yard run back which gave Yale the ball on its own 45 yard line. For tactical advantage, Kempson ran the ball outside and the succeeding lineup was 15 yards in. Aldrich gained three yards before Hubbard brought him down. Aldrich kicked and Cutler tossed Buell back for a five yard loss on an attempted runback.

Aldrich Intercepts Pass
It was Harvard's ball on its own 15 yard line. Owen skinned between Acosta and Dickens for a 13 yard advance. The ball changed hands again through the medium of the forward pass. Buell's heave was caught by the alert Aldrich who was downed on Harvard's 33 yard line. Yale's forces were marshalled by Captain Callahan for a counsel. Yale went into the lines again for tactical advantage and brought the ball out nearer to the center of the field. Aldrich was tossed back for loss by Tolbert and Yale lined up with the ball on its 30 yard line. Aldrich tried a pass to Kempson but Crocker had the blue quarterback covered. Aldrich attempted a drop kick for goal, standing almost at mid-field but the Harvard forwards hurried him and the ball grounded on Harvard's 20 yard line, and rolled beyond the goal. It was brought out to Harvard's possession on its own 20 yard line. Humphrey replaced the fragile Fitts in the crimson back field at this time. A line rush with nominal gain and a forward pass, Buell to Owen advanced the ball to Harvard's 39 yard line, where the period ended. Score: Harvard 3; Yale 0.

SECOND PERIOD
Reversing goals the teams line up again to renew the contest that in the first period had found Yale stubbornly resistant and quick to seize on opportunities. The first play was a run the width of the field by Humphrey, who brought the ball to Harvard's 39 yard line before Aldrich brought him down. Horween jammed past right tackle Walker for nine yards and first down on Harvard's 44 yard line. Owens added three more in a rush against the left side, and on the next play added two more before Dickens laid him low on the left. Owen kicked and Yale players allowed the ball to roll about before it was declared dead on Yale's nine yard line. The Harvard forwards smothered Kempson's centre drive with a yard advance. Aldrich, standing under his goal posts, kicked to a fair catch by Buell on Yale's 47 yard line. Instead of taking the placement kick option, Harvard chose to run, and Horween went ahead five yards before Sturm stopped him. A long forward pass of 30 yards, Buell to Crocker, found Harvard with the ball on Yale's 15 yard line. A penalty for offside play set the Crimson back 15 yards.

SLIGHT INCREASE IN DEATH RATE

There was a slight increase in the local death rate this week as compared with a week ago, but the figures were lower than those of two weeks ago. There was a recrudescence of the measles epidemic, 51 cases being reported as against 37 last week. Two weeks ago there were also 51 cases.

There were 29 deaths during the week compared with 26 a week ago and 31 the week before. The rates were 13.57, 11.93 and 15.63, respectively. Nine deaths were of children less than five years old and six of these were under one. Infectious diseases caused two deaths, pneumonia four, measles one and tuberculosis one.

The infectious diseases reported were: Diphtheria, 5; scarlet fever, 10; measles, 51; tuberculosis, 7. A year ago this week there were 22 deaths, six under five and five under one. One case of measles was reported.

MASS MEETING FOR MEN TOMORROW

The Sunday afternoon mass meeting for men, to be held at the Lowell Opera House at 3.30, will be one more especially of a patriotic nature. John Williams Weeks of New York city, a lecturer, educator and writer, will give his address, "Whence Came This Legion?" illustrated by over 100 slides, all of which are beautifully colored, illustrating the "whence" of the American Legion.

This address has been dedicated especially to the American Legion, and it is hoped that many members of the local post may be present to hear it. If ample notice is given, plans will be taken to reserve space for the members of the legion. Mr. Weeks has lectured at many of the camps during the war, as well as in many of the largest cities, to several of which he has returned many times.

MISS LOGAN HONOURED

A linen shower was given Thursday evening in honor of Miss Irene Logan at her home, West Fourth street, when about 75 of her friends called and presented her many beautiful and useful gifts. Although taken by complete surprise she responded gracefully and thanked them for their many gifts. A varied entertainment was given in the form of a minstrel show, Margaret Tarpey being the interlocutor, while Katherine McPherson, Mary Farrell, Adele Lane and Sadie Hinchey were the ends. The soloists of the evening were: Mrs. John Flannery, Mrs. John Byrne, Mrs. Terrell and Mrs. Annie Devine. Another feature of the evening was a mock marriage, the participants being Mae Tarpey, Mary Bray, Katherine Tooley and Katherine Bourke. The accompanists of the evening were Maude Gray and Edna Campbell. The success of the affair was due to Mae Asho, Mabel Topping, Alice Mahoney and Lillian Dooley.

CHRISTMAS AT ORPHANAGE

The annual Christmas tree exercises at the French-American orphanage in Pawtucket street will be held as usual this year and again the affair will be given under the auspices of Mrs. George H. Calais. The evening since the orphanage was opened, Mrs. Calais looked after the welfare of the little ones by providing them with delicacies and toys as well as clothing. The exercises are possible through private donations collected by Mrs. Calais and this year will be no exception to the rule. Another feature at the orphanage on Christmas is the midnight mass, which is celebrated in the chapel of the institution. This service will be held as usual this year and the sisters in charge of the home are now preparing a special musical program for the event. This mass is for the children of the orphanage and a few invited guests.

SATURDAY EVENING SOCIAL

The regular Saturday evening social will be held at the Y.M.C.A. There will be movies and singing during the evening and refreshments will be served by the ladies. There will also be movies, and a short explanation, on the working and advantages of the Knowlton Hydraulic Air Motor. This is something worth knowing about.

LOCAL TRAFFIC CLUB

Tentative plans for the organization of a traffic club were outlined at a well attended meeting at the chamber of commerce rooms last evening at which Traffic Manager W. S. Whitcomb presided. The club membership will be representative of the larger factories and industries of the city and traffic problems will be discussed as they come up. It is planned to hold a meeting at least once a month. At the next meeting actual organization will be effected.

SOCCER FOOTBALL TOMORROW

The Massachusetts Mohair Plush Co. soccer football team will line up against the Olympics on the South common tomorrow afternoon. R. Patterson will referee. On Thanksgiving morning the Massachusetts outfit will oppose a strong Centralville team captained by Fred Parkington and including such players as Burrows, Atherton, Smith, Thomas and Fairbrother. Both teams will have their strongest outfits on the field and a great game should result.

THANKSGIVING TURKEY HIGH THIS YEAR

Thanksgiving turkeys are to be expensive and scarce in Lowell this year and most of the birds of an inferior quality.

Such is the dictum of the manager of one of the large local wholesale houses who was in Boston all day yesterday attempting to get the annual shipment of turkeys into Lowell started, but who reported this morning that his visit was more or less discouraging.

In the first place, this has been a poor year for raising turkeys owing to the unreasonable weather which prevailed up to two weeks ago. It is next to impossible to fatten the birds in warm weather, he says, because they keep running around under such conditions and gain little flesh. In cold weather they eat more heartily and fatten much more quickly. The net result is a very bullish turkey.

A WOMAN DOCTOR

says "Eugenics is a necessary factor in the future of the race. The average American girl is unfit for motherhood." This may be true, but if weak and ailing girls passing from girlhood to womanhood would only rely, as thousands do, upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—that simple remedy made from roots and herbs—to restore the system to a normal, healthy condition, it would cause many ills from which they suffer to disappear so that motherhood might become the joy of their lives.—Adv.

"END YOUR RHEUMATISM

Like I Did Mine"—Says
Pastor Reed: Wife
Also Rid of Neuritis

Suffered Tortures For Years—Now
Telling Good News To Others

"Don't Believe That Old Hacking About
'Uric Acid' Is the Cause of Rheumatism—It's Not So!"

Emphatically asserting that thousands of unfortunate sufferers have been led into taking wrong treatments under the old and false belief that "Uric Acid" causes rheumatism, Pastor H. W. Reed says:

"As do some of our highest medical authorities, I now know that 'Uric Acid' never is and never will cause rheumatism. But I took me many years to find out this truth. I earned how to get rid of my rheumatism and recover my health and strength, through reading 'The Inner System of Rheumatism,' a work written by an authority who has scientifically studied the cause and treatment of rheumatism for over twenty years. It was indeed a reliable revelation!"

"I had suffered years from rheumatism and associated disorders, and Mrs. Reed was tortured with the demon rheumatism almost beyond endurance. We had read and talked so much about 'Uric Acid' that our minds seemed poisoned. But the 'Inner System of Rheumatism' made it all clear to me and now we are both free from the suffering and misery we endured so many years. I believe I was the hardest man in the world to convert. For me to discard the old 'Uric Acid' theory, and what I now know to be absolutely false, for the new scientific understanding of the cause and cure of rheumatism, was like asking me to change my religious beliefs. But I did change, and it was a fortunate day for me and mine when I did so."

Suffered From Asthma for Years

Tried Many Remedies Without Avail
—Druggist Recommended RE-NU-YU—First Bottle Brought Relief

"I freely recommend RE-NU-YU to anyone suffering from asthma and bad cough," says J. C. Littlefield, Haverhill, Mass. "For several years I was subject to both and tried many remedies without avail. RE-NU-YU was recommended by a druggist and I got prompt relief with the first bottle."

Don't confuse RE-NU-YU with many so-called "patent" medicines that claim to cure almost every ailment. It is the favorite prescription of an old family doctor who for more than 50 years used it in treating coughs, colds, croup, catarrh, asthma, bronchitis and similar ailments. It is a splendid strength restorer and body builder. Every home should have it. Ask your druggist for RE-NU-YU today. E. A. Morrissey Company, Boston, Mass.

key market. The best wholesale prices he could obtain yesterday by offering to buy the birds by the carload was from 52 to 60 cents per pound for Kentucky and other western turkeys and from 60 to 75 cents a pound for New York birds.

Such rates, he says, will mean retail prices ranging from 65 to 85 cents per pound. The birds are mostly of an inferior quality as compared with previous years, although, of course, a few good ones may be found by the keenly discerning householder.

The market is very high, the highest in years, in fact, the Lowell manager says, and he is in an excellent position to know. Cooler weather during the past two weeks has helped to improve matters a bit, but there seems little indication of any great drop between now and next Thursday, Thanksgiving.

Owing to the amount of unemployment now existent in Lowell and similar cities, it is believed that there will not be such a great demand for turkeys as in previous years. Chickens and fowl will be substituted in a number of homes because of their superior fastening qualities this year. Milk-fed chickens are expected to retail at about 60 cents per pound and corn fed at 50. There is a fairly abundant supply of this kind of poultry. Other families will probably resort to the staple meats, such as pork, veal and beef. Vegetables, cranberries and other addenda of the Thanksgiving dinner are plentiful and fairly reasonable. But the customary plea of resistance—the turkey—will command a very high figure.

FOR STARVING CHILDREN

Athletic Association Helps to Swell the European Children's Fund

The co-operation of the Athletic Association of Harvard, Yale and Princeton has netted $3,700 toward the American Relief Administration's European Children's Fund, according to John W. Hallowell of Boston, Massachusetts chairman of the Hoover organization. Contributions from those in attendance at the big game in New Haven this afternoon will swell the fund, it is believed to $5,000.

The money given to feed the starving children of Central Europe by the crowds in attendance at the three college games will apply toward a fund of $23,000,000 Herbert Hoover is endeavoring to raise in the United States. It is estimated that this sum will be necessary to keep alive 3,500,000 children in Poland, Austria, Hungary, Germany and Czechoslovakia who are now facing starvation.

Harvard, Yale and Princeton Athletic associations enclosed printed notices with all tickets sold to the games. These notices stated that the recipients might be glad to donate that sum toward the A. R. A. European Children's Fund.

This morning, Fred A. Moore, graduate manager of the Harvard Athletic Association sent Mr. Hoover a check for $2,200, received from ticket holders since the Harvard-Princeton game. The Princeton Association likewise sent a check for $1,500. Yale's contribution, the result of today's appeal enclosed with the tickets, will, it is believed, bring the amount to $5,000.

Mr. Hallowell, who is state chairman of the A. R. A. European Children's Fund, is a former Harvard football player. Herbert L. Gutterston, who is in charge of the national Hoover campaign with offices at 42 Broadway, New York, is another Harvard football player. Both men have long been identified with the Hoover organization.

In view of famine conditions in Central Europe, the American Relief Association has announced that a generation of children will die of starvation during the coming winter months unless relief is rushed to Europe from the United States.

Sleep Like a Top

There is nothing so essential to good health as good sound, refreshing sleep. This you can not get if your stomach, liver or kidneys are out of order. It's an easy matter to keep these important organs in good condition if, when they are not working properly, you will take for a few days from 10 to 20 drops of SEVEN BARKS in a little water after each meal. It is a safe and remarkable remedy, scientifically blended from the extracts of roots and herbs, and has stood the test for nearly half a century.

If you want to "sleep like a top," as the old saying goes, you must take good care of your health.

SEVEN BARKS comes direct from Nature, and is a most valuable remedy in the home treatment of chronic disorders, such as indigestion, constipation, rheumatism, liver, kidney and stomach troubles. As a tonic and general corrective SEVEN BARKS is without an equal, and should be in every home. It is Nature's way of supplying tone and strength and overcoming disease.

Sleepless nights will cause you to get up in the morning, tired and unrefreshed, with a dull, heavy head, dependent on these are symptoms of deranged stomach, an inactive liver and kidneys. SEVEN BARKS will help remove the cause of these troubles. It acts gently and safely, but very efficiently. At druggists. Price 60 cents—Adv.

SETTLEMENT IN THE SEARLES WILL CASE

BOSTON, Nov. 20.—Albert Victor Searles, a Boston artist, has won a victory in his fight to secure a "just and fair" portion of the $28,000,000 estate of his uncle, the late Edward Francis Searles, who when he died last August, left his nephew but $250,000, the residue after other bequests were made—going to Arthur T. Walker of New York, business manager of the Searles estate.

Preliminary skirmishes in the Essex county probate court in the nephew's fight to break the will began Oct. 1. Their result was the framing of issues for a trial, and the contesting parties were awaiting the naming of a trial date when settlement by "mutual agreement" was reached yesterday.

Albert Victor Searles will become the possessor of the largest share of the $28,000,000 or $11,000,000, which will remain of the estate after the government inheritance taxes have been paid and $5,000,000 out of the balance has been turned over to legatees named in the millionaire's will.

Depreciation in real estate values and large losses in the value of securities owned by the estate, and payment of $12,000,000 or $13,000,000 in inheritance taxes will leave about one-third of the estimated cash value of the estate when the administrators and trustees, Arthur T. Walker and Lewis A. DeLafield, are finally prepared to turn over to the artist nephew the sum agreed upon yesterday.

No mention of this amount was given yesterday by attorneys announcing the settlement. From other sources, however, information was obtained that Albert V. Searles will finally receive an amount estimated at from $5,000,000 to $7,500,000.

FRATERNAL NEWS

The annual inspection of James A. Gaffield Women's Relief corps took place last evening. Mrs. Mattie Tuttle acting as inspection officer. The meeting was presided over by the president, Mrs. Sylvia Giles Flanders, and routine business was transacted. It was announced that Mrs. Ada Myrick will have charge of the supper and sale at the next regular meeting.

"NEWSPAPER MINSTRELS"

An entertainment entitled the "Newspaper Minstrels" was staged in the Community club rooms in the Randolph building last night for members of the club. The minstrels were dressed up to represent the various cartoon characters of the daily papers and an evening was one uproar after another when the girls presented themselves as "dotted up" in curious costumes, as Mrs. Karkine, the Kattajammer, Maggie, or Mrs. Nutt. There were nearly 150 members present. Miss Alice Coyne acted as interlocutor while the Dalton sisters acted as end men. Miss Mary Hewson led the chorus of 20 girls and Miss Lillian Allard was the pianist. Miss Helen Latour and her committee, including Miss Ethel Dickson and Miss Anna Foley, directed the entertainment.

Big Stocks on Hand

There are some hundreds of thousands of gallons of legally manufactured booze held in the bonded warehouses of the country. This liquor is largely represented by whiskey warehouse certificates. Each certificate calls for a certain quantity of booze for which it can be bought openly in the market.

That there are considerable quantities of "home-brew" being consumed in Lowell seems quite certain.

There are stores in which the materials for concocting the beverages are displayed openly for sale in the windows. On

LOCAL GIRLS TAKE PART

Lowell Girls in Junior Show at Mount Holyoke College

That all important event of Junior year, the presentation of the "class show," took place at Mount Holyoke college last evening. The production, a happy combination of delicate fantasy and vivacious musical comedy, was entitled "The Color Seeker." Ruth A. Ashton of San Diego, Cal., and Elizabeth L. Osgood of Boston were the authors of the play. Music, dancing, costuming, and setting were the original work of the class, each member of which had some part in the production.

The same success which attended the two previous presentations of the Y.M.C.I. carnival in the institute rooms in Blacklock street was enjoyed last night. Those taking part in the sketch were Thomas Bates, Michael Mahoney, John Payne and Mary O'Keefe.

MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN

Girl Scout Troops Drive Ended This Week—Final Returns Not Yet In—Lowell and Dracut Contribute $1550

Although final returns are not yet in from the 114 cities and towns in Massachusetts where active Girl Scout troops, there is no doubt that the membership campaign which ended this week was successful.

There are 7500 Girl Scouts in the state and it was hoped that the Girl Scout would secure pledges amounting to $10. This would make a total for the campaign of approximately $75,000, and from present indications there is every reason to believe that this amount and perhaps more will be realized.

The following named towns and cities have either raised or guaranteed their quotas as follows:

Boston	$11,000
New Bedford	$800
Newton	$2,750
Lowell and Dracut	$1,550
Lawrence	$350
Weston	$70
Lexington	$10
Medford	$160
Milton	$100
West Upton	$80
Winchester	$350
Lynn	$350
Hingham	$300
Ware	$250
Melrose	$500
Winthrop	$420
Reading	$1,500
North Easton	$120
Stoughton	$20
Brookline and Cambridge	feels quasable sum of reaching their quotas, and Belmont doubled its quota.

These statistics show quotas for certain cities, Lynn for example, which appears to be low for the population of the city, but this discrepancy is explained by the fact that the quota was based on the returns of $10 for each scout in the city.

Lynn, however, is about to remedy this condition, for already two new troops have been formed there.

Not only has the campaign been successful financially, but the activities of the Girl Scouts have been much better understood than a number of cities and towns are already beginning to organize troops, which heretofore had none.

HELD "MOVIE BALL"

Novel Dancing Party in Merrimack Gardens by Owners of the Merrimack Square Theatre

The owners of the Merrimack Square theatre conducted an exceptionally pretty and novel dancing party in the Merrimack Gardens last evening.

The affair was a "movie ball" and added to the regular decorations of the hall were pictures of prominent movie actors and actresses. During the evening, these were given out by drawing. Nearly 250 couples enjoyed a long dance order. The officers in charge of the party were: General manager, Joseph V. Flanagan; assistant general manager, Francis Mulligan; door director, Joseph Ward; assistant floor director, Harold Doyle; treasurer, Manuel Joseph.

The Presentation of Two-Feature Programs of Super-Productions Continue in Vogue at This Theatre

A continuation of the same policy of the past—two-features programs and the usual comedy and weekly issues—is meeting with the unqualified approval of the motion picture patrons of Lowell and suburbs, as is evidenced by the capacity audiences that attend all performances. It's the popular program and General Manager Sorensen intends to continue it indefinitely. Despite the efforts of others to "shorten up."

For the coming week the offering for the first three days of the week will include "The Man Who Dared," "The Man Who Dared," and "Carmel Myers." In "The Man Who Dared," Olive Thomas last picture, "Everybody's Sweetheart," and William H. Crane and Buster Keaton in "The Saphire." On Monday the usual matinee will be given over to the Boston Symphony orchestra concert.

As the best feature in which William Russell has starred, "The Man Who Dared," a new William Fox production with the story told in the California Redwoods, is to be shown Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, Saturday, and Sunday. Russell has the role of Jim O'Kane, boss of a lumberjack camp. The story tells of his love for a girl named Mary who he loved when he was a boy. With the sheriff, he happened to be in love with the same girl. He was not exactly what a sheriff should be. The film is said to be suitable for the beauty of its setting. Trees grow 200 feet high in the Redwoods, walking in the forest paths is like a dream. Mr. Russell is supported by Ellen Percy, Frank Brownlee, and others.

Marriage—the ceremony that closes many love stories, that opens many divorce cases—is merely an incident in "Folly's Trail," in which sparkling Carmel Myers appears. As the spirit of Folly, emerges from a champagne bottle at a week-end party in exclusive Westchester. A penniless artist gazes in Folly's eyes and falls. Then Folly beckons along the trail of romance to marriage, along the trail of marriage to the abrupt precipice of divorce. Then a divorcee, after the usual inevitable of its kind, built on such a foundation. Settings of magnificence and scenes of beauty are beautifully gown women appear lend brilliancy to the production. Miss Myers comes back to the screen from musical comedy and makes a decided hit. Don't miss it.

The coming of the Lewis Selznick's special production, "Everybody's Sweetheart," will elicit sympathetic interest, as well as recall the untimely death in France of recent date of one of the screen's most popular stars, Olive Thomas. It's a picture story that reflects to a marked degree the wonderful personal charm as well as the exceptional attainments possessed by this bright little star during her comparatively short but meteoric career in filmland. In it the star is said to have reached the peak of her emotional talent and rare accomplishments in characterization that stamped her as one of the leading luminaries of the screen of her time. In the first part of the picture she appears as a young girl who is an inmate of a country poor farm. In spite of the fact that she is absolutely alone in the world and would have every reason to be discontented with her lot, she appears to be the most cheerful of all people and fairly radiates happiness. This untiring good nature causes her to be entrusted with the title "Everybody's Sweetheart." Mary is in love with John, a poor boy on the farm. One day the two accompanied by an old soldier called "Cornwall" run away from the poor farm. Circumstances bring them to the home of General Blingham, a wealthy, retired soldier. The general thinks he sees in Mary a striking resemblance to his dead son and adopts her.

her. Mary refused to stay without John, so when given work as a gardener. When the general later decides to publicly announce Mary as his granddaughter and heiress, a startling incident occurs that entirely changes the situation and Mary goes again home, a little "nobody." In spite of this the story comes to a happy conclusion and one that is both satisfactory and logical.

The coming of "The Saphire" with William H. Crane and Buster Keaton is another specially strong attraction. It's a story of Wall Street and New York aristocracy. It is a picture of that phase of American life which has formed the basis of what has been designated the "critique" of the great American drama. Love and high finance are mingled with orgies of wild spending that give to the story a gripping interest. Mr. Crane plays the part of the hard headed, arrogant, haughty broker, and Keaton, the extravagant, easy-going son, whose many foolishnesses cause him to be dubbed "The Saphire."

Director Bennett will again find ample opportunity to reflect his exceptional attainment as a producer, while his engagingly well-studied scenes heavily in their characterizations of the various roles. Milton Hyron and Maxwell Driscoll will portray the parts of the brothers, and Miss Fields novel of their mother's remains from the private graveyard, to a cemetery some distance away. This is the point of difference between the two brothers, that is witnessed by the opposition of Sam Warren's courtship to Helen. Helen, Martin's daughter, is in love with Sam. Helen elope with the conspiracy of Nat and Capt. Hurlbut on the sloop "Liddy Ann," and the third act shows the boat at sea, about to founder when the lights of the Berry light-house are seen just in time to give them their bearings. The first act is faithful picture of "Shore Acres Farm," with the lighthouse in the distance. The second act shows the farm kitchen and the famous turkey dinner. The third act in two scenes, shows the inside of the lighthouse, where the memorable struggle occurs between the brothers, and the final act shows the farm house with the reconciliation of father and daughter, through the coming of the baby, and the saving of the farm from mortgage foreclosure by the timely arrival of Uncle Sam's beated pension.

The third act in two scenes, shows the inside of the lighthouse, where the memorable struggle occurs between the brothers, and the final act shows the farm house with the reconciliation of father and daughter, through the coming of the baby, and the saving of the farm from mortgage foreclosure by the timely arrival of Uncle Sam's beated pension.

Director Bennett will again find ample opportunity to reflect his exceptional attainment as a producer, while his engagingly well-studied scenes heavily in their characterizations of the various roles. Milton Hyron and Maxwell Driscoll will portray the parts of the brothers, and Miss Fields

Three Killed in Auto Crash

HAVERHILL, Nov. 20.—William M. Moore, aged 51, of 11 Seventh avenue, John Smythe, aged 42, Emerson street and Walter Shaw, aged 37, living in Essex street, were fatally injured early this morning when an automobile in which they were riding and driven by Shaw, crashed into an electric pole, on the Amesbury road, near Saltonstall. Moore died on the way to the hospital. Shaw and Smythe died at the hospital about two hours later. All sustained fractured skulls. The police have been unable to find an eye-witness of the accident. The machine was proceeding toward Haverhill from Merrimack when it crashed into the electric pole. Shaw was thrown 25 feet and Moore and Smythe were picked up from beneath the machine. They were taken to the hospital in the police ambulance.

Urge Americans to Send Food

BERLIN, Nov. 19.—Appeals to Americans to send food drafts immediately to German friends and relatives have been issued by the American relief organization here. It is pointed out that if the drafts are sent at once the organization can issue food packages for Christmas presents. Warehouses in Berlin, Hamburg, Dresden and Frankfurt announce unusual demands, chiefly in the name of children, who are said to need milk and sugar.

American Airplanes Enter Mexico

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Two American commercial aeroplanes, the first to enter Mexico, have arrived at Chihuahua City, en route from Lincoln, Neb., to Mexico City, according to advices to the department of commerce. The object of the trip is to mark landing fields and advertise and sell American aeroplanes and automobile trucks.

HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS AS CHEER LEADERS

The routine work at the high school is sometimes broken by novelty and now the girls are taking their turn at it. For years past, cheering at football, track meets, or baseball games, has rested mainly upon and has been directed by the boys. But now, since the women got the vote, the girls have decided to do some cheering by themselves, led by their own cheer leaders. The boy cheer leaders objected to the idea, strenuously, but the girls are going through with the plan, and have already held several practice sessions in the school hall, excluding all boys.

The girls chosen as leaders are the Misses Laurin, McEvoy, Garvey and Groarke. The boys are beginning to sit up and take notice because the girls may show them up at the Lawrence football game.

On Friday evening after Thanksgiving, the review staff will stage a dance in St. Anne's parish house, the proceeds of which will go to make up a deficit of $150 from last year's staff.

BRIDGE CONTRACT LET

Announcement was made last evening that the contract to repair Central bridge so that it may be reopened to heavy traffic had been awarded to the Chelmsford Forge & Iron Works company by Commissioner Dennis A. Murphy, subject to the approval of the municipal council. It had originally been planned to have the work done by employees of the highways department, but later it was decided to let the work out by contract. The firm which is to do the work will start Monday morning and expects to have one side of the plank- ing ready for traffic within two weeks.

The sign of a reliable dealer and the world's best Gasoline

Every motor highway and byway throughout picturesque New England and New York is a part of the long "Socony Trail".

Ye Olde Towne Mill, New London, Conn. This is said to be the oldest mill in America. It was built in 1650 for John Winthrop, who founded New London.

MANY quaint sections of old New London are familiar to thousands of New England motorists. There is a main Socony depot there and many well-distributed filling stations to assure a dependable supply of gasoline and motor oils for all who need them.

The excellence of Socony products and Socony service is uniformly high. Unequalled experience in petroleum refining and progressive methods of distribution have made them possible. Socony gasoline is always clean and powerful. Every drop of every gallon is the same whenever and wherever you buy it. It vaporizes quickly, ignites easily and burns completely in summer and winter alike. It is the standard of all motor fuels.

Use Socony products regularly. You will notice a favorable difference in the performance of your motor—more power, greater mileage. Look for the red, white and blue Socony sign.

American Ignores British Demands

LONDON, Nov. 20.—Washington D. Vanderlip, the American who recently announced the granting by Soviet Russia of important concessions in Siberia to an American syndicate which he represented, was met shortly after his arrival here from Russia by a demand from the British authorities for an inspection of the documents in his possession, he declared in a statement today. Mr. Vanderlip, who arrived in London last evening, said he was visited this morning by officials of the British home office, who demanded to see his personal papers and contracts with the Russian soviet government. Mr. Vanderlip declared he refused to show the officials these documents.

Big Fire at New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 20.—Fire which started near Congress street early this morning in a new banana wharf, destroyed that pier and quickly spread along the river front until the docks for a length of four squares were aflame. The Truxillo and the Poncelet, two vessels tied up at the burning wharf, were towed to safety, but later an oil tank in the stern of the Poncelet exploded. Several million feet of lumber owned by the government was destroyed. After a hard fight the fire was brought under control.

Mill Stories for Mill Workers

Lowell Mills 50 Years Hence

What will the mills of Lowell be like 50 years hence?

A little group of mill men happened to meet by chance the other evening. They had talked over many subjects they were interested in. As conversation lagged, one of the party shot out the interrogation above.

There was a pause. It took a little time to turn the vision that had been focussed on the affairs of the past and present so far forward into the future. Then one member of the group bit off the end of a fresh cigar and ventured a speculation. His connection with the mills is along—mechanical lines.

"Fifty years from today," he said, "every canal in Lowell will have been filled up, the surface seeded to grass and turned into a parkway."

"Running water through a canal as a means of distributing power is wasteful. We hang on to it today because it would cost a lot of money to substitute something more economical. If the old bunch who started things going here—Boott, Lowell, Lawrence and the others—were to do their work today they would begin in a different way from what they did."

Power Station at Falls
"At Pawtucket falls would be a big hydro-electric generating station. It would generate all the power that the falls could furnish and send it over high tension wires to the mills to be applied to running the machinery. Think of the saving from not having an intricate system of canals to keep up, bridges to build and repair, and the inevitable wastage of having so many water wheels where a few would do better service."

"Then, too, 50 years from now, the lines of shafting and belts will have been ripped out of the mills, and every loom, mule, spinning frame and other machine will have power taken to it over a wire that will operate an individual motor."

"By that time also the flow of the Merrimack will have been increased and stabilized so that it will be producing about double the available horsepower that is produced today."

"There are mills, too, in Lowell today that are exhausting live steam against the nearly 15 pounds of pressure of the atmosphere. That will have ended. We shall still have to use coal, but we shall have stopped wasting it."

Good Days to Come

"Sort of millennium, you're planning for, eh?" interjected a member of the group. "Well, he's working an hour a day then, with 45 minutes off for lunch, I suppose."

"No," said another member of the party, who happens to be well up on labor subjects, "the reduction of the number of working hours has about reached its limit. Intelligent laboring men are beginning to see that cutting down production, by limiting the hours of labor, is not profitable. It results inevitably in the end in there being less goods for consumption, and, regardless of high or low wages, lowers the general standard of living, and that is the only thing that really counts."

"Fifty years from today, strikes and labor disturbances will have become a thing of the past. Labor will be represented on the board of directors of every mill. The workers will own the stock. Representatives of the toilers will sit with the treasurers of the corporations when they hold their regular meetings here in Lowell. Capital and labor will have learned to play the game squarely together because their interests are identical. Every mill will have its board of arbitration to settle factory differences. There will be a general arbitration council to take up questions that pertain to the whole city, and there will be similar state and national boards."

Americanize Them All
"There will be few so-called foreigners in the mills. We shall have Americanized them. We may have a law, similar to that already enacted in a neighboring state, that no person who cannot speak and write English shall be employed in the mills."

"While you're telling us your pipe dreams," interjected a young man with an interest in sports. "What about daylight saving?"

"Oh, we shall have, outgrown that nonsense. We shall change our working hours to fit the seasons of the year and not our clocks."

"Well, since you all think you are prophets, I'll tell you what I believe we shall have 50 years from now."

"Every mill will have a first-class baseball and football team, and we shall have inter-mill leagues, and games for the championship of the city will be played on one of the finest athletic fields in the world over on the First street oval."

More Attractive Mills
"I will tell you what I think," interrupted a man, who has been known to appear at his work on a midsummer morning with a bunch of sweaters in his buttonhole. "I believe that by 50 years from today, a lot of progress will have been made toward having more attractive places to work in. The staring brick walls will have been climbing over them and hiding them. There will be window boxes of plants. Every bit of green around the factories will be tended and cherished."

"Come off your perch, boys, you're all dotty," briskly ventured another individual who previously had been quietly muttering. His work in the mills takes him through many different departments for its performance. "I went into a shoe factory in Boston a little while ago. The messengers boys were all on roller skates. It was a marvel how quickly and easily they dashed all over the plant. I hope the day is coming when men of my kind can get around in that way."

The serious-minded men who had been picturing to themselves what the mills of Lowell would be fifty years hence laughed and the conversation lapsed back to affairs of present day life.

Continued

Charles J. Morse, Dennis A. Murphy, Cornelius J. O'Neil, Cecil G. Palmer, Michael J. Quinn, Ernest W. Robinson, Robert R. Thomas and Frank A. Warnock.

The school committee aspirants are Albert Bergeron, William H. Conroy, John A. Crowley, Charles A. Donahue, Edward J. Donnelly, Henry P. Doran, William H. Looney, Elmore L. MacPhie, Anthony Phomare, Fred G. Rolfe, William R. Thompson and James C. Warner.

Each voter will have the privilege of voting for two candidates for aldermen and three for the school committee, although twice that number will actually be nominated. However, if one votes for more than the specified number, his or her ballot will not count.

The members of the municipal council whose terms expire on the 1st of December are: Aldermen, Commissioner George E. Marchand of the department of public property and licenses, and Commissioner Dennis A. Murphy of the department of streets and highways. Both are candidates for re-election.

Of the other candidates for the council, Messrs. Brown, Morse and Warnock have previously been members.

The three retiring members of the school committee this year are Julian B. Keyes, Gardner W. Pearson and Dr. James H. Rooney. None of them seeks re-election. Of the aspirants for the nomination to the committee, Mr. Crowley was once nominated for the position but never elected. Dr. Thompson was a member of the committee in 1918 and 1919. Mr. Doran is a member of the Lowell charter commission but never held other public office.

The polls will open promptly at noon and close at 9 o'clock. Definitions of information as to who the nominees are should be available by 10:30 or 11 o'clock.

The four candidates for the municipal council who are nominated next Tuesday will contest for the two positions which are to become vacant at the beginning of next year at the city election Tuesday, December 14. Similarly, the six school committee nominees will contest for the three available positions.

The primaries campaign has been exceptionally quiet, due perhaps to a reaction after the presidential contest. Only a few of the aldermanic candidates have taken to the stump, and while they have been heard with attention, there has not been the usual amount of political activity.

Although nominally the men who are elected next month are to serve for two years, as a matter of probability the entire 1921 government will be wiped out at the end of the year by a change of charter. The charter committee is now working on a document which will go to the legislature for approval next January and is then scheduled for submission to the people next fall. If accepted, an entire new set of municipal officers will have to be chosen for 1922.

Preparations Complete
The election commissioners have practically completed arrangements for handling the first municipal primaries to be conducted under their sole auspices. Last year at this time, the old board of registrars and the city clerk were in charge of the details of the preliminary election.

The polling places next Tuesday will be the same as those used at the state election on November 2. Some 32,000 ballots have been prepared for the occasion and are now under lock and key at city hall. Everything is in shape for the efficient conduct of the primaries.

Heldereads at Election
Although there will be no referendum on the ballot next Tuesday, at the election on December 14, Lowell voters will probably be called upon to decide whether they wish to continue Sunday sports in this city next year. Section 8 of Chapter 210 of the Acts of 1920 says in part: "At every city election in the current year, the question of such acceptance, referring to the Sunday sports bill shall be submitted to the voters, but in any subsequent year said question shall be submitted only upon a petition signed and filed by not less than ten per cent. of the voters."

The local city council accepted the card last spring, but such acceptance applied only to the present year. If Sunday sports are to be allowed here next year, the legislative act must be favored by the voters at the city election next month.

The same conditions hold true of the new boxing law which was also accepted by the Lowell municipal council a few months ago. This act will also go on the ballot at the city election.

FIRST REPUBLICAN IN MANY YEARS

SEQUIN, Tex., Nov. 20.—Harry McLeary Wurzbach is the first republican elected to represent Texas in congress for 24 years. In 1895 a populist fusion broke the democratic line, but only temporarily. Wurzbach's opponent was Carlos Bee, a brother-in-law of Postmaster Burleson. As county judge in Guadalupe county, Wurzbach points with pride to a reduction of the tax rate from 50 to 25 cents.

VISITOR FROM ASSYRIA

Archbishop Khoury Celebrated Mass at St. Jean Baptiste Church Today

A pontifical high mass was celebrated at St. Jean Baptiste church at 10 o'clock this morning by Rt. Rev. Shakhallah Khoury, archbishop of the Maronites of Tyre, Assyria, who is the guest of his people and the Oblate fathers of St. Joseph's parish of this city. The distinguished prelate was assisted at the altar by Rev. Fr. Bostani, pastor of St. Anthony's church in Lawrence, where he will celebrate mass tomorrow and later he will go to Boston and other New England centers, where his people are located.

Last evening the visiting prelate was entertained at luncheon at the Richardson hotel and later in the evening he addressed his people at St. Joseph's college hall in Merrimack street.

Archbishop Khoury has been in America since last May. He came here after receiving a special permission from the pope to make an investigation of the spiritual condition of the Maronites in America. The archbishop visited the pope with the Maronite patriarch after both had attended the peace conference in Paris in an entourage.

Mrs. Gould Speaks to Mothers

In a nice letter to the Dr. J. F. True & Co. Mrs. Irving Gould of Chesterland, Ohio, says: "As my boy is sick and in much need of your Elixir, I ought not to be without it. I cannot speak too much praise. Dr. True's Elixir has done wonderful things for my children, and I will gladly answer any mother's letters in regard to the medicine and suffering children."

Mrs. Gould is one of thousands of mothers who look after the health of their children by giving them Dr. True's Elixir, the Family Laxative and Worm Expeller. If your children have these symptoms, give them Dr. True's Elixir.

Symptoms of Worms: Bad breath, swollen upper lip, sour stomach, occasional pains, pale face, eyes heavy and dull, twitching eyelids, itching of the nose and rectum, short dry cough, red points on the tongue, starting during sleep, slow fever. Dr. True's Elixir, The Family Laxative and Worm Expeller, is sold at "all" drug stores. Three sizes. Buy the large size—Adv.

Color Returned To Her Cheeks

This Massachusetts Woman Wants Others to Know of Remedy That Restored Her Health

When the color fades from your cheeks and lips and you lose weight, become nervous and suffer from indigestion, headaches and sleeplessness, the cause is to be sought in the state of the blood. The blood goes to every part of the body and when it becomes thin the general health is affected. Build up the blood and you will be surprised how quickly your appetite improves. The sparkle will return to your eye, the color of health to your cheeks and new energy will circulate through your entire system.

This was the experience of Mrs. Albert Demers, of No. 26 Payson avenue, Dorchester, Mass. She says:

"For the benefit of others who may be saved a great deal of suffering, would like to tell how I regained my health. I was very thin and did not have a bit of color. I was so weak that a little effort caused shortness of breath and when I climbed up stairs I was left practically exhausted. My nerves were so unstrung that I had crying spells and could not control myself. I had no appetite and suffered from severe pains across my back. I also had headaches a great deal and became very melancholy."

"I read about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and remembering that I had heard from friends how good they were I got a box and in a short time began to feel a little better. Soon the headaches disappeared and as I continued taking the pills the color returned to my cheeks and lips. I have a good appetite now and I feel stronger and better in every way, thanks to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I will get a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at your drug store today or write to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., enclosing sixty cents and a box will be sent you, postpaid. A little book, 'Building Up the Blood,' which explains the treatment, will be sent free on request."

John Sidebottom of Box 21, Ashton, R. I., has written to the city clerk asking for information as to the whereabouts of Samuel Fawcett who lived in this city 10 or 12 years ago at 1 Prospect street. At that time he was employed as a dyer. Mr. Sidebottom writes.

The election commissioners announced today the appointment of Mrs. Nellie A. Hyde of 42 Humphrey street as a precinct officer to fill a vacancy in precinct 1 of ward 1. She will begin her duties at the city primaries Tuesday. Mrs. Hyde is the second woman precinct officer to be appointed, the first being Mrs. Mary Sullivan of 45 Waverley street.

At the regular monthly meeting of the League of Catholic Women in Lincoln hall tomorrow afternoon Mrs. William Reser, the well known dramatic soprano of Virginia, will sing a group of southern songs. Mrs. Reser is visiting her sister, Mrs. William P. Lawler, of this city. Mrs. Martha Moore Avery, president of the Catholic Truth guild, will deliver a lecture on "Catherine of Aragon." The Mandolin Glee club will make its first appearance of the season.

The musical clubs of the Textile school held a pretty dancing party in Southwick hall last evening with more than 100 couples in attendance. The hall was prettily decorated with potted plants and fraternity banners under the direction of Holly Winkfield and James Day of the faculty. Music for the occasion was furnished by the school orchestra augmented by several local players under the direction of Roger G. Hamlin, president of the musical club. Mr. and Mrs. Louis A. SLIGHT INCREASE IN DEATH RATE

There was a slight increase in the local death rate this week as compared with a week ago, but the figures were lower than those of two weeks ago. There was a recrudescence of the measles epidemic, 51 cases being reported as against 67 last week. Two weeks ago there were also 51 cases.

There were 22 deaths during the week compared with 24 a week ago and 34 the week before. The rates were 13.37, 11.59 and 15.65, respectively. Nine deaths were of children less than five years old and six of these were under one. Infectious diseases caused two deaths, pneumonia four, measles one and tuberculosis one.

The infectious diseases reported were: Diphtheria, 9; scarlet fever, 10; measles, 51; tuberculosis, 7. A year ago this time there were 22 deaths, six under five and five under one. One case of measles was reported.

MASS MEETING FOR MEN TOMORROW

The Sunday afternoon mass meeting for men, to be held at the Lowell Opera House at 3.30, will be one more especially of a patriotic nature. John Williams Weeks of New York city, a lecturer, educator and writer, will give his address, "Whence Came This Legion?" illustrated by over 100 slides, all of which are beautifully colored, illustrating the "whence" of the American Legion.

This address has been dedicated especially to the American Legion, and it is hoped that many members of the local post may be present to hear it. If ample notice is given, pains will be taken to reserve space for the members of the legion. Mr. Weeks has lectured at many of the camps during the war, as well as in many of the largest cities, to several of which he has returned many times.

MISS LOGAN HONORED

A linen shower was given Thursday evening in honor of Miss Irene Logan at her home, West Fourth street, when about 75 of her friends called and presented her many beautiful and useful gifts. Although taken by complete surprise she responded gracefully and thanked them for their many gifts. A varied entertainment was given in the form of a minstrel show, Margaret Turpey being the interloper, while Katherine McPherson, Mary Farrell, Adele Lane and Sadie Flannery were the ends. The soloists of the evening were: Mrs. John Flannery, Mrs. John Byrne, Mrs. Tardiff and Miss Annie Devine. Another feature of the evening was a mock marriage, the participants being Mae Tarpey, Mary Bray, Katherine Toomey and Katherine Hourka. The accompanists of the evening were Maud Gray and Rose Campbell. The success of the affair was due to Mae Ashe, Mabel Topping, Alice Mahoney and Lillian Dooley.

CHRISTMAS AT ORPHANAGE

The annual Christmas tree exercises at the French-American orphanage in Pawtucket street will be held as usual this year and again the affair will be given under the auspices of Mrs. George E. Calise. Every year since the orphanage was opened, Mrs. Calise looked after the Christmas tree exercises by providing them with delicacies and toys as well as wearing apparel. The exercises are possible through private donations collected by Mrs. Calise and this year will be no exception to the rule. Another feature at the orphanage at Christmas is the midnight mass, which is celebrated in the chapel of the institution. This service will be held as usual this year and the sisters in charge of the home are now preparing a special musical program for the event. This mass is for the children of the orphanage and a few invited guests.

SATURDAY EVENING SOCIAL

The regular Saturday evening social will be held at the Y.M.C.A. There will be movies and singing during the evening and refreshments will be served by the ladies. There will also be a short explanation of the working and advantages of the Knowlton Hydraulic Air Motor. This is something worth knowing about.

THANKSGIVING TURKEY HIGH THIS YEAR

Thanksgiving turkeys are to be expensive and scarce in Lowell this year and most of the birds of an inferior quality.

Such is the dictum of the manager of one of the large local wholesale houses who was in Boston all day yesterday attempting to get the annual shipment of turkeys into Lowell started, but who reported this morning that his visit was more or less discouraging.

In the first place, this has been a

"END YOUR RHEUMATISM

Pastor Reed: Wife
Also Rid of Neuritis

Suffered Tortures For Years—Now
Telling Good News To Others

"Don't Believe That Old Hoax About 'Uric Acid' Being the Cause of Rheumatism—It's Not So!"

Emphatically asserting that thousands of unfortunate sufferers have been led into taking wrong treatment under the old and false belief that "Uric Acid" causes rheumatism, Pastor B. W. Reed says:

"As do some of our highest medical authorities, I now know that 'Uric Acid' never did and never will cause rheumatism! But it took me many years to find out this truth. I earned how to get rid of my rheumatism and recover my health and strength, through reading 'The Inner Mysteries of Rheumatism,' a work written by an authority who has scientifically studied the cause and treatment of rheumatism for over twenty years. It was indeed a veritable revelation!

"I had suffered many years from rheumatism and associated disorders, and Mrs. Reed was tortured with the demon neuritis almost beyond endurance. We had read and talked so much about 'Uric Acid' that our minds seemed poisoned. But the 'Inner Mysteries of Rheumatism' made it all clear to us and now we are both free from the suffering and misery we endured so many years. I believe I was the hardest man in the world to convert! For me to discard the old 'Uric Acid' theory, and what I now know to be absolutely false, for the new scientific understanding of the cause and cure of rheumatism, was like asking me to change my religious beliefs! But I did change, and I was a fortunate day for me and mine when I did so."

NOTE: "The Inner Mysteries of Rheumatism" referred to above by Pastor Reed lays bare facts about rheumatism and the associated disorders overlooked by doctors and scientists for centuries past. It is a work that should be in the hands of every man or woman who has the slightest symptoms of rheumatism, neuritis, lumbago or gout. Anyone who needs name and address to R. S. Clearwater, 250 E. Street, Hallowell, Maine, will receive it by mail, postage paid and absolutely free. Send now, but you forget the address! I am not a sufferer, but I am a friend of the afflicted and I am glad to help.

poor year for raising turkeys owing to the unseasonable weather which prevailed up to two weeks ago. It is next to impossible to fatten the birds in warm weather, he says, because they keep running around under such conditions and gain little flesh. In cold weather they eat more heartily and fatten much more quickly. The net result is a very bullish Thanksgiving.

A WOMAN DOCTOR

"Eugenics is a necessary factor in the future of the race. The average American girl is unfit for motherhood." This may be true, but if weak and ailing girls passing from girlhood to womanhood would only rely, as thousands do, upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—that simple remedy made from roots and herbs—to restore the system to a normal, healthy condition, it would cause many of the ills from which they suffer to disappear so that motherhood might become the joy of their lives.—Adv.

Suffered From Asthma for Years

Tried Many Remedies Without Avail
—Druggist Recommended RE-NU-YU—First Bottle Brought Relief

"I freely recommend RE-NU-YU to anyone suffering from asthma and bad coughs," says A. C. Littlefield, Haverhill, Mass. "For several years I was subject to both and tried many remedies without avail. RE-NU-YU was recommended by a druggist and I got prompt relief with the first bottle. Don't confuse RE-NU-YU with many so-called 'patent' medicines that claim to cure almost every ailment. It is the favorite prescription of an old family doctor who for more than 50 years used it in treating coughs, colds, croup, catarrh, asthma, bronchitis and similar ailments. It is a splendid strength restorer and body builder. Every home should have it. Ask your druggist for RE-NU-YU today. E. A. Morrissey Company, Boston, Mass. key market. The best wholesale prices he could obtain yesterday by offering to buy the birds by the carload was from 62 to 60 cents per pound for Kentucky and other western turkeys and from 50 to 76 cents a pound for New York birds.

Such rates, he says, will mean retail prices ranging from 65 to 85 cents per pound. The birds are mostly of an inferior quality as compared with previous years, although, of course, a few good ones may be found by the keenly discerning householder.

"The market is very high, the highest in years. In fact, the Lowell manager says, and he is in an excellent position to know. Cooler weather during the past two weeks has helped to improve matters a bit, but there seems little indication of any great drop between now and next Thursday, Thanksgiving.

Owing to the amount of unemployment now existent in Lowell and similar cities, it is believed that there will not be such a great demand for turkeys as in previous years. Chickens and fowl will be substituted in a number of homes because of their superior tasting qualities this year. Milk-fed chickens are expected to retail at about 60 cents per pound and corn fed at 50. There is a fairly abundant supply of this kind of poultry. Other families will probably resort to the simple meats, such as pork, veal and beef. Vegetables, cranberries and other additions of the Thanksgiving dinner are plentiful and fairly reasonable. But the customary piece de resistance—the turkey—will command a very high figure.

FOR STARVING CHILDREN

Athletic Association Helps to Swell the European Children's Fund

The co-operation of the Athletic Association of Harvard, Yale and Princeton has netted $3,700 toward the American Relief Administration's European Children's Fund, according to John W. Hallowell of Boston, Massachusetts chairman of the Hoover organization. Contributions from those in attendance at the big game in New Haven this afternoon will swell the fund, it is believed to $5,000. The money given to feed the starving children of Central Europe by the crowds in attendance at the three college games will apply toward a fund of $23,000,000 Hoover is endeavoring to raise in the United States. It is estimated that this sum will be necessary to keep alive 3,500,000 children in Poland, Austria, Hungary, Germany and Czechoslovakia who are now facing starvation.

Harvard, Yale and Princeton Athletic associations enclosed printed notices with all tickets sold to the games. These notices stated that no war tax was charged, the recipients might be glad to donate that sum toward the A. R. A. European Children's Fund.

This morning, Fred A. Moore, graduate manager of the Harvard Athletic Association sent Mr. Hoover a check for $2,200, received from ticket holders since the Harvard-Princeton game. The Princeton Association likewise sent a check for $1,500. Yale's contribution, the result of today's appeal enclosed with the tickets, will, it is believed, bring the amount to $5,000.

Mr. Hallowell, who is state chairman of the A. R. A. European Children's Fund, is a former Harvard football player. Herbert L. Guttererson, who is in charge of the national Hoover campaign with offices at 42 Broadway, New York, is another Harvard football player. Both men have long been identified with the Hoover organization.

In view of famine conditions in Central Europe, the American Relief Association has announced that a generation of children will die of starvation during the coming winter months unless food is rushed to Europe from the United States.

Sleep Like a Top

There is nothing so essential to good health as good sleep, refreshing sleep. This you can not get if your stomach, liver or kidneys are out of order. It's an easy matter to keep these important organs in good condition if, when they are not working properly, you will take for a few days from 10 to 20 drops of SEVEN BARKS in a little water after each meal. It is a safe and remarkable remedy, scientifically blended from the extracts of roots and herbs, and has stood the test for nearly half a century.

If you want to "sleep like a top," as the old saying goes, you must take good care of your health. SEVEN BARKS comes direct from Nature, and is a most valuable remedy in the home treatment of chronic disorders, such as indigestion, constipation, rheumatism, liver, kidney and stomach troubles. As a tonic and general corrective SEVEN BARKS is without an equal, and should be in every home. It is Nature's way of supplying tone and strength and overcoming disease.

Sleepless nights will cause you to get up in the morning, tired and unrefreshed, with a dull, heavy head, despondent, etc.—these are symptoms of deranged stomach, an inactive liver and kidneys. SEVEN BARKS will help remove the cause of these troubles. It acts gently and safely, but very efficiently. At druggists. Price 80 cents.

SETTLEMENT IN THE SEARLES WILL CASE

BOSTON, Nov. 20.—Albert Victor Searles, a Boston artist, has won a victory in his fight to secure a "just and fair" portion of the $28,000,000 estate of his uncle, the late Edward Francis Searles, who when he died last August, left his nephew but $250,000, the residue after other bequests were made—going to Arthur T. Walker of New York, business manager of the Searles estate.

Preliminary skirmishes in the Essex county probate court in the nephew's fight to break the will began Oct. 1. The result was the framing of judicial issues for a trial, and the contesting parties were awaiting the naming of a trial date when settlement by "private agreement" was reached yesterday.

Albert Victor Searles will become the possessor of the largest share of the $28,000,000 or $11,000,000, which will remain of the estate after the government inheritance taxes have been paid and $5,000,000 out of the balance has been turned over to legatees named in the millionaire's will.

Depreciation in real estate values and large losses in the value of securities owned by the estate, and payment of $12,000,000 or $13,000,000 in inheritance taxes will leave about one-third of the estimated cash value of the estate when the administrators and trustees, Arthur T. Walker and Lewis A. Deafield, are finally prepared to turn over to the artist nephew the sum agreed upon yesterday.

No mention of this amount was given yesterday by attorneys in announcing the settlement. From other sources, however, information was obtained that Albert V. Searles will finally receive an amount estimated at from $5,000,000 to $7,500,000.

These statistics show quotas for certain cities. Lynn, for example, which appear to be low for the population of the city, but this discrepancy is explained by the fact that the quota was based on the return of the 1930 census. In the case of Lynn, however, it is about to remedy this condition, for already two new troops have been formed there.

Not only has the campaign been successful financially, but the activities of the Girl Scouts have been much better understood than a number of cities and towns are already beginning to organize troops, while heretofore had none.

Three Killed in Auto Crash

HAVERHILL, Nov. 20.—William M. Moore, aged 51, of 11 Seventh avenue, John Smythe, aged 42, Emerson street and Walter Shaw, aged 37, living in Essex street, were fatally injured early this morning when an automobile in which they were riding and driven by Shaw, crashed into an electric pole, on the Amesbury road, near Saltonstall. Moore died on the way to the hospital. Shaw and Smythe died at the hospital about two hours later. All sustained fractured skulls. The police have been unable to find an eye-witness of the accident. The machine was proceeding toward Haverhill from Merrimack when it crashed into the electric pole. Shaw was thrown 25 feet and Moore and Smythe were picked up from beneath the machine. They were taken to the hospital in the police ambulance.

HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS AS CHEER LEADERS

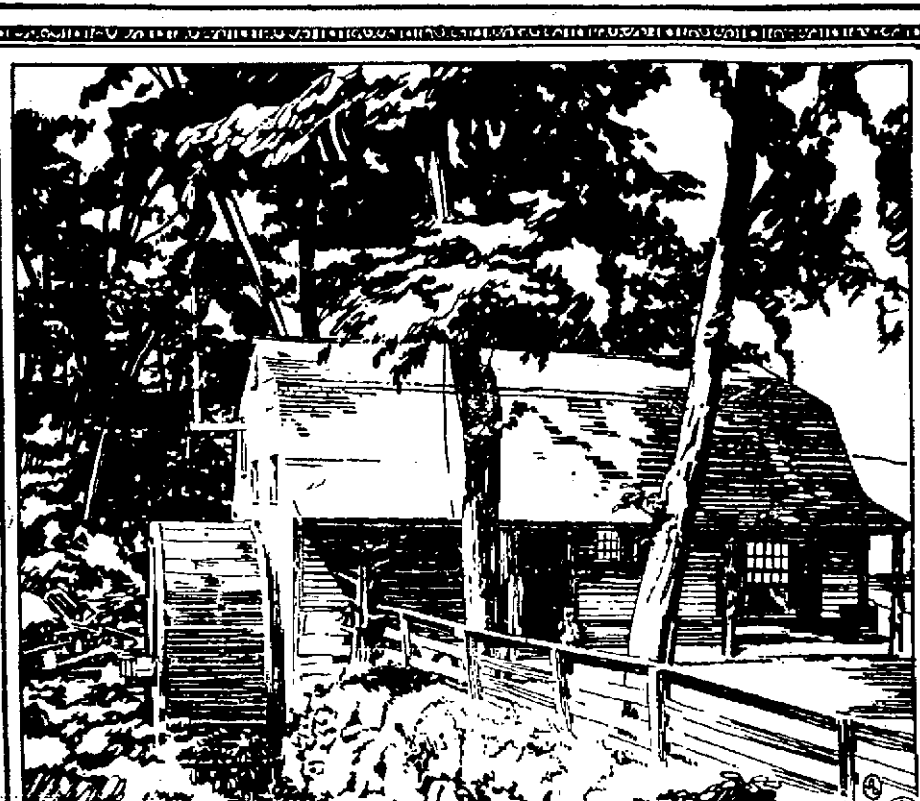

The routine work at the high school is sometimes broken by novelty and now the girls are taking their turn at it. For years past, cheering at football, track meets, or baseball games has rested mainly upon and has been directed by the boys. But now, since the women got the vote, the girls have decided to do some cheering by themselves, led by their own cheer leaders. The boys cheer leaders objected to the idea strenuously, but the girls are going through with the plan, and have already held several practice sessions in the school hall, excluding all boys.

The girls chosen as leaders are the Misses Laurin, McEvoy, Garvey, and Groucke. The boys are beginning to sit up and take notice because the girls may show them up at the Lawrence football game.

On Friday evening after Thanksgiving, the review staff will stage a dance in St. Anne's parish house, the proceeds of which will go to make up a deficit of $150 from last year's staff.

BRIDGE CONTRACT LET

Announcement was made last evening that the contract to repair Central bridge so that it may be reopened to heavy traffic had been awarded to the Chelmsford Forge & Iron Works company by Commissioner Dennis A. It had originally been planned to have the work done by employees of the highways department, but later it was decided to let the work out by contract. The firm which is to do the work will start Monday morning and expects to have one side of the plank- ing ready for traffic within two weeks.

The sign of a reliable dealer and the world's best Gasoline

Every motor highway and byway throughout picturesque New England and New York is a part of the long "Socony Trail".

Ye Olde Towne Mill, New London, Conn. This is said to be the oldest mill in America. It was built in 1650 for John Winthrop, who founded New London.

MANY quaint sections of old New London are familiar to thousands of New England motorists. There is a main Socony depot there and many well-distributed filling stations to assure a dependable supply of gasoline and motor oils for all who need them.

The excellence of Socony products and Socony service is uniformly high. Unequaled experience in petroleum refining and progressive methods of distribution have made them possible. Socony gasoline is always clean and powerful. Every drop of every gallon is the same whenever and wherever you buy it. It vaporizes quickly, ignites easily and burns completely in summer and winter alike. It is the standard of all motor fuels.

Use Socony products regularly. You will notice a favorable difference in the performance of your motor—more power, greater mileage.

Several million feet of lumber owned by the government was destroyed. After a hard fight the fire was brought under control.

Mill Stories for Mill Workers

Lowell Mills 50 Years Hence

What will the mills of Lowell be like 50 years hence?

A little group of mill men happened to meet by chance the other evening. They had talked over many subjects they were interested in. As conversation lagged, one of the party shot out the interrogation above.

There was a pause. It took a little time to turn the vision that had been focused on the affairs of the past and present so far forward into the future. Then one member of the group bit off the end of a fresh cigar and ventured a speculation. His conversation with the mills is along mechanical lines.

"Fifty years from today," he said, "every canal in Lowell will have been filled up, the surface seeded to grass and turned into a parkway."

"Running water through a canal as a means of distributing power is wasteful. We hang on to it today because it would cost a lot of money to substitute something more economical. If the old bunch who started things going here—Boott, Lowell, Lawrence and the others—were to do their work today they would begin in a different way from what they did."

Power Station at Falls

"At Pawtucket falls would be a big hydro-electric generating station. It would generate all the power that the falls could furnish and send it over high tension wires to the mills to be applied to running the machinery. Think of the saving from not having an intricate system of canals to keep up, bridges to build and repair, and the inevitable wastage of having so many water wheels where a few would do better service."

"Then, too, 50 years from now, the lines of shafting and belts will have been ripped out of the mills, and every loom, mule, spinning frame and other machine will have power taken to it over a wire that will operate an individual motor."

"By that time also the flow of the Merrimack will have been increased and stabilized so that it will be producing about double the available horsepower that is produced today. There are mills, too, in Lowell today that are exhausting live steam against the nearly 15 pounds of pressure of the atmosphere. That will have ended. We shall still have to use coal, but we shall have stopped wasting it."

Good Days to Come

"Sort of millennium, you're planning for, eh, Bill?" interjected a member of the group. "Well, he's working an hour a day then, with 45 minutes off for lunch, I suppose."

"No," said another member of the party, who happens to be well up in labor subjects, "the reduction of the number of working hours has about reached its limit. Intelligent laboring men are beginning to see that cutting down production, by limiting unduly the hours of labor, is not profitable. It results inevitably in the end in there being less goods for consumption, and, regardless of high or low wages, lowers the general standard of living, and that is the only thing that really counts."

"Fifty years from today, strikes and labor disturbances will have become a thing of the past. Labor will be represented on the board of directors of every mill. The workers will own stock. Representatives of the tollers will sit with the treasurers of the corporations when they hold their regular meetings here in Lowell. Capital and labor will have learned to play the game squarely together because their interests are identical. Every mill will have its board of arbitration to settle factory differences. There will be a general arbitration council to take up questions that pertain to the whole city, and there will be similar state and national boards."

Americanized Them All

"There will be few so-called foreigners in the mills. We shall have Americanized them. We may have a law, similar to that already enacted in a neighboring state, that no person who cannot speak and write English shall be employed in the mills."

"While you're telling us your pipe dreams," interjected a young man with an interest in sports. "What about daylight saving?"

"Oh, we shall have outgrown that nonsense. We shall change our working hours to fit the seasons of the year and not our clocks."

"Well, since you all think you are prophets, I'll tell you what I believe we shall have 50 years from now." "Every mill will have a first-class baseball and football team, and we shall have inter-mill leagues, and games for the championship of the city will be played on one of the finest athletic fields in the world over on the First Street oval."

More Attractive Mills

"I will tell you what I think," interrupted a man, who has been known to appear at his work on a midsummer morning with a bunch of sweet peas in his buttonhole. "I believe that by 50 years from today, a lot of progress will have been made toward having more attractive places to work in. The staring brick walls will have been climbing over them and hiding them. There will be window boxes of plants. Every bit of green around the factories will be tended and cherished."

"Come off your perch, boys, you're all dotty," briskly ventured another individual who previously had been quietly ruminating. His work in the mills takes him through many different departments for his performance. "I went into a shoe factory in Boston a little while ago. The messenger boys were all on roller skates. It was a marvel how quickly and easily they dashed all over the plant. I hope the day is coming when men of my kind can get around in that way."

The serious-minded men who had been picturing to themselves what the mills of Lowell would be fifty years hence laughed and the conversation tapped back to affairs of present day.

FIRST REPUBLICAN IN MANY YEARS

SEQUEL, Tex., Nov. 20.—Harry McLeary Wurzbach is the first republican elected to represent Texas in congress for 24 years. In 1855 a populist fusion broke the democratic line, but only temporarily. Wurzbach's opponent was Carlos Rice, a brother-in-law of Postmaster Hurless. As county judge in Guadalupe county, Wurzbach points with pride to a reduction of the tax rate from 60 to 25 cents.

Charles J. Morse, Dennis A. Murphy, Cornelius J. O'Neill, Cecil G. Palmer, Michael J. Quinn, Ernest W. Robinson, Robert R. Thomas and Frank A. Warnock.

The school committee aspirants are Albert Bergeron, William H. Conroy, John A. Crowley, Charles A. Donahue, Edward J. Donnelly, Henry E. Dorn, William H. Loney, Elmore I. MacKie, Anthony Phoraro, Fred G. Rolfe, William R. Thompson and James C. Warner.

Each voter will have the privilege of voting for two candidates for aldermen and three for the school committee, although twice that number will actually be nominated. However, if one votes for more than the specified number, his or her ballot will not count.

The members of the municipal council whose terms expire on the first Monday of January, 1921, are Commissioner George E. Marchand of the department of public property and licenses, and Commissioner Dennis A. Murphy of the department of streets and highways. Both are candidates for reelection.

Of the other candidates for the council, Messrs. Brown, Morse and Warnock have previously been members.

The three retiring members of the school committee this year are Julian H. Keyes, Gardner W. Pearson and Dr. James H. Rooney. None of them seeks reelection. Of the aspirants for the nomination to the committee, Mr. Crowley was once nominated for the position but never elected. Dr. Thompson was a member of the committee in 1918 and 1919. Mr. Moran is a member of the Lowell charter commission but never held other public office.

The polls will open promptly at noon and close at 8 o'clock. Definite information as to who the nominees are should be available by 10:30 or 11 o'clock.

The four candidates for the municipal council who are nominated next Tuesday will contest for the two positions which are to become vacant at the beginning of next year at the city election Tuesday, December 14. Similarly, the six school committee nominees will contest for the three available positions.

The primaries campaign has been exceptionally quiet, due perhaps to a reaction after the presidential contest. Only a few of the aldermanic candidates have taken to the stump and they have been heard with little attention, there has not been the sensationalism that lent a touch of interest to other campaigns.

Although nominally the men who are elected next month are to serve for two years, as a matter of probability the entire 1921 government will be wiped out at the end of the year by a change of charter. The charter commission is working on a document which will go to the legislature for approval next January and is then scheduled for submission to the people next fall. If accepted, an entire new set of municipal officers will have to be chosen for 1922.

Preparations Complete

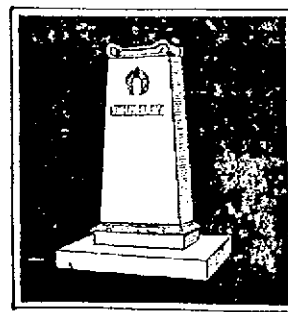

The election commissioners have practically completed arrangements for holding the first municipal primaries to be conducted under their sole auspices. Last year at this time, the old board of registrars and the city clerk were in charge of the details of the primaries. Election. The polling places next Tuesday will be the same as those used at the state election on November 3. Some 32,000 ballots have been prepared for the occasion and are now under lock and key at city hall. Everything is in shape for the efficient conduct of the primaries.

Reference at Election

Although there will be no referendum on the ballot next Tuesday, at the election on December 14, Lowell voters will probably be called upon to decide whether they wish to continue Sunday sports in this city next year. Section 8 of Chapter 240 of the Acts of 1920 says in part: "At every city election in the current year, the question of such acceptance of the ordinance shall be submitted to the voters, but in any subsequent year said question shall be submitted only upon a petition signed and filed by not less than ten per cent of the voters." The local city council accepted the act last spring, but such acceptance applied only to the present year. If Sunday sports are to be allowed here next year, the legislative act must be favored by the voters at the city election next month.

The same conditions held true of the new boxing law which was also accepted by the Lowell municipal council a few months ago. This act will also go on the ballot at the city election.

PROBE BRINGS DROP IN BUILDING COSTS

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—Disintegration of the contractor-dealer combination forming New York's alleged "building trust" has begun and prices of construction materials have toppled over and dropped since active warfare against these interests was opened. It was revealed yesterday by witnesses before the joint legislative committee conducting the investigation.

Increased productivity of labor also has been apparent since the investigating committee began exposing one general after another and the grand jury started returning indictments. Employers testified. There came evidence to show countrywide control of production and prices in marble, cement, limestone and other trades. National associations are threatening these industries, it was alleged.

More than a year ago, Samuel Untermyer, counsel for the committee, declared it given an opportunity to conduct an inquiry into these "conspirators," he could send prices tumbling and yesterday, as his questions brought replies showing his predictions have come true, he seemed the happiest man in the city.

Hugh White, vice-president of the George A. Fuller Construction Company, one of the largest concerns of the United States, told of a "very rock-bound" agreement in granite and marble, and said the cement industry was under absolute control of a national association. This association, he said, has divided the country into districts and manufacturers will not sell to dealers outside the sphere assigned them. Similarly, dealers will not deal with contractors beyond their designated territory. George Atwell, a demolition contractor, also testified to nationwide control of the cement business.

Both witnesses cited recent price reductions. Mr. Atwell declared bricks dropped from $30 a thousand to half that amount, while Mr. White also spoke of their decline and of getting lower than expected estimates on $800,000 worth of work. He added that the company's unit labor costs in the last two or three weeks "show more productivity for the men than before the investigation started."

Atwell swore to paying more than $12,000 bribe to Brindell and declared he had never gone to the "throne" without being sent for. He knew of five expensive and luxurious automobiles owned by Brindell in the city and understood he had other machines in the country.

FORD COMPANY ANNOUNCEMENT

A very important announcement is made in the advertisement of Pitts Motor Sales in today's automobile section of this paper. As long as Henry Ford can continue to make 3000 cars a day, he will keep his factory running full time. But, if he closes—well, there is no other alternative. It is stated authoritatively that there will be no difference in the models of the Ford car, and furthermore there will also be no further reductions in prices of cars.

The purchase of a motor car this year should not keep holding it off. They will have no car when they want it most. Get your order in for your car now, and avoid disappointment. The Pitts Motor Sales people have arranged a simple plan of payment. One-third down and the balance in a year. The Ford car can be used every day in the year, and what is better than running your car while you pay for it. The Pitts Motor Sales will be glad to send a salesman to explain the plan of payment, etc.

Open and closed commercial bodies for Ford chassis, two car loads just received at C. H. Hanson & Co.'s, Rock street.

VISITOR FROM ASSYRIA

Archbishop Khoury Celebrated Mass at St. Jean Baptiste Church Today

A pontifical high mass was celebrated at St. Jean Baptiste church at 10 o'clock this morning by Rev. Bishop Khoury, archbishop of the Maronites of Tyre, Assyria, who is the guest of his people and the Oblate of St. Joseph's parish of this city. The distinguished prelate was assisted at the altar by Rev. Fr. Bostani, pastor of St. Anthony's church in Lawrence. The archbishop left this noon for Lawrence, where he will celebrate mass tomorrow and later he will go to Boston and other New England centres, where his people are located.

Last evening the visiting prelate was entertained at luncheon at the Richardson hotel and later in the evening he addressed his people at St. Joseph's college hall in Merrimack street.

Archbishop Khoury has been in America since last May. He came here after receiving a special permission from the pope to make an investigation of the spiritual condition of the Maronites in America. The archbishop visited the pope with the Maronite patriarch after both had attended the peace conference in Paris in an

Mrs. Gould Speaks to Mothers

In a nice letter to the Dr. J. F. True & Co., Mrs. Irving Gould of Chesterland, Ohio, says: "As my boy is sick and in much need of your Elixir, I ought not to be without it. I cannot speak too much praise. Dr. True's Elixir has done wonderful things for my children, and I will gladly answer any mother's letters in regard to the medicine and suffering children."

Mrs. Gould is one of thousands of mothers who look after the health of their children by giving them Dr. True's Elixir, the Family Laxative and Worm Expeller. If your children have these symptoms, give them Dr. True's Elixir.

Symptoms of Worms: Itad breath, swollen upper lip, sour stomach, occasional pain, pale face, eyes heavy and dull, twitching eyelids, itching of the nose and rectum, short dry cough, red points on the tongue, starting during sleep, slow fever. Dr. True's Elixir, The Family Laxative and Worm Expeller, is sold at all drug stores. Three sizes. Buy the large size.—Adv.

Color Returned To Her Cheeks

When the color fades from your cheeks and lips and you lose weight, become nervous and suffer from indigestion, headaches and sleeplessness, the cause is to be sought in the state of the blood. The blood goes to every part of the body and when it becomes thin the general health is affected. Build up the blood and you will be surprised how quickly your appetite improves. The sparkle will return to your eyes, the color of health to your cheeks and new energy will circulate through your entire system.

This was the experience of Mrs. Albert Demers, of No. 26 Payson avenue, Dorchester, Mass. She says: "For the benefit of others who may have saved a great deal of suffering, I would like to tell how I regained my health. I was very thin and did not have a bit of color. I was so weak that a little effort caused shortness of breath and when I climbed up stairs I was left practically exhausted. My nerves were so unstrung that I had crying spells and could not control myself. I had no appetite and suffered from severe pains across my back. I also had headaches a great deal and became very melancholy."

After reading Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and remembering that I had heard from friends how good they were I got a box and in a short time began to feel a little better. Soon the headaches disappeared and as I continued taking the pills the color returned to my cheeks and lips. I have a good appetite now and I feel stronger and better in every way, thanks to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

Get a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at your druggist today or write to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y. enclosing sixty cents and a box will be sent you postpaid. A little book, "Building Up the Blood," which explains the treatment, will be sent free on request.

To the Citizens of Lowell

I am a candidate for the nomination for re-election as alderman of the City of Lowell.

I believe that my experience as a public official has fitted me to represent the people of my city for another term.

I shall, if nominated and elected, give a clean, decent and progressive management of public affairs, as in the past.

I pledge to the citizens of Lowell, if nominated, my promise to administer the business of the city in an upright and straightforward manner.

GEORGE E. MARCHAND, 15 Harding St.
